Nixon Sees 'New Prosperity,' Peace

BY DAVID WEITZ
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

CHICAGO — President Richard Nixon called for "New Prosperity" and extended hopes for a "generation of peace" as he spoke here Friday to 40,000 dairymen.

He was addressing the annual meeting of Associated Milk Producers, Inc., a Texas-to-Canada dairy cooperative. He told farmers he wanted to talk "in the broader context of the problems the United States faces."

He made pledges to end war in the world and change the economic role of the United States.

"We live in a time of enormous challenge for America," Nixon said. His goals are economic health for the nation and world peace.

"We are beginning to build the structure for a new era of peace in the world," he said.

The president directly referred to Communist China, both as a nation which could aid peace and as a future economic rival.

China Talks

He said upcoming China talks and other negotiations throughout the world could bring peace. "We have the best chance since World War II to have what our children have not had — a whole generation of peace," he said.

But the economic picture of the nation also is changing, and Nixon said that "New Prosperity" can be achieved. "It will mean a new world of much greater competition for America," he said.

During the 25 years since World War II, the nation's economic leadership in the world has changed. "At the end of World War II, the U. S. had all the chips," Nixon said.

Then it was the responsibility of this nation to help the wartorn world recover. Now, facing intense competition from former enemies, the United States must change its policy, said Nixon.

He called for a plan whereby the nation will "quit trying to compete with one hand tied behind our backs." The nation still is No. 1 in the world economically, he said, but must alter its policy to retain the leadership.

Potential Competitor

Red China was mentioned by Nixon as a potential economic competitor. In the future, that nation with 800 million inhabitants will be a rival for world trade.

He struck a similar theme Friday at the dedication of an Air Force museum near Dayton, Ohio, saying the U. S. must continue to strive to be No. 1 or cease to be a great nation.

A "New Prosperity" envisioned by the President is closely linked to freezes on wages and prices. "War always leaves a legacy of inflation," he told the farmers.

Costs to farmers have been a striking example of the impact of inflation. While prices farmers must pay have increased 52 per cent, the prices they receive have been boosted only 8 per cent.

"On Aug. 15, I decided it was time for us to cut down on inflation," said Nixon. He called for a new spirit to make the economic policy work. Prosperity can be a goal for all Americans.

"If America is not to fall behind . . . it is going to be necessary for us to strengthen our spirit," said Nixon.

Sacrifices Necessary

Some sacrifice may be necessary, but citizens united behind a prosperity program of wage-price freeze can bolster the economy.

He promised the dairymen the wage-price freeze will work. It will require a sacrifice, but spiralling costs of living can be controlled. "That's worth sacrificing for," he said.

The President said that recent reports of welfare clients refusing menial work disturbed him. "Let us recognize the dignity of work." He drew applause as he told dairymen his father had worked at many occupations and said no work which "affords self-respect" is menial.

Above all, he said, Americans must unite behind their nation. "Once the nation ceases trying to be No. 1, it will cease being a great nation." He drew applause when he cited the importance of agricultural exports and said under new prosperity programs world trade policies may shift. "Let the markets abroad be open to the United States as the United States markets are open to the world."

He also drew applause when he called for the nation to remain strong by keeping farm economy strong. "Let us see that we stay No. 1 by seeing that our farmers get their fair share," he said.

Nixon saluted the dairy organization and said "the spirit of putting America first is characteristic of the cooperative."

The President received an ovation as he walked from the raised stand, slowly shaking hands with the visitors and reaching to grasp the hand of a young, blue-shirted boy who stretched over a retaining rope and extended his hand.

Youngsters stood on chairs and dairymen and their wives cheered and applauded for 40 seconds after the speech. Nixon again came forward, introduced congressmen and slowly strolled from the building, reaching over ropes to shake hands, talking with farmers and bending to reach upthrust hands.

Mayor Richard Daley welcomed the farmers and said Chicago historically has been linked with agriculture. "Our ties with farmers are much more than economic." Instead, values cherished by farmers are closely held in the city, said Daley.

Illinois Gov. Richard Ogilvie extended an official welcome to the farmers. He cited a recently formed rural development council in this state as a close link between farmers and urban residents.

Nixon Opposes Profit Tax, Quiet on Interest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has come out against an excess profits tax but has opened the door to possible controls on interest rates after President Nixon's 90-day wage-price freeze expires.

A high White House official told newsmen Friday the profits tax proposal "is a very poor form of taxation" that fails to take into account the fact that profit margins are already low.

At the same time, the official said, "there's some ground to be plowed" in considering controls on interest rates after the freeze, using either or both the Federal Reserve Board's dormant credit controls and restraints on mortgage interest rates.

Against Tax

The White House's position against the profits tax appeared to rule out all controls on profits after the freeze ends Nov. 13, something labor is pressing for.

Dr. Paul McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, has said that the only way to control profits would be through the tax route. Economists have generally denounced the tax proposal as poor economic policy.

"The President is aware of these arguments," the White House official told a group of six newsmen. "I'm quite sure his attitude is negative on the point" although no formal posture has been taken on the proposal.

No Decision

No decision has been made on interest-rate controls, the official indicated, saying it was a "pretty complicated" field in which action could be taken in some areas and couldn't be taken in others. What areas?

"Mostly things the Federal Reserve can do about credit and in housing," the official said. Under the Credit Control Act, the Federal Reserve could have wide control over interest rates if the President triggered the procedures under the law.

The Federal Reserve, meantime, revealed it has asked 300 of its member banks to supply detailed information on interest rates they charged just before and after Nixon's freeze.

But the board's chairman, Arthur F. Burns, added a disclaimer in a letter to the banks. "We at the Federal Reserve have taken the position that such a sweeping limitation is unnecessary," Burns wrote.

Order to Delay Studded Tire Starting Date

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin Division of Motor Vehicles says it will issue an emergency order next week, delaying the starting date for authorized use of studded tires to Nov. 12.

Until this year, motorists could begin using them Oct. 15.

Public hearings on shortening the period of studded tire use will be held this fall. Tentatively suggester dates are Dec. 1 to March 1.

The legislature is considering action to prohibit metal studs entirely because of studies which show the safety features cause considerable deterioration of road paving.

Teacher Salary Hike Ruled Out

U.S. Says Earlier Announcements Were 'Misinterpreted'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council has apparently eliminated up to 80 per cent of the nation's school employes from pay hikes.

The National Education Association called the ruling, issued Friday, an incredible reversal that will create havoc in thousands of schools where payrolls are being computed.

Council Director Arnold R. Weber and Treasury Undersecretary Charles Walker insisted the council policy remains the same but some of the rhetoric has changed to correct confusions.

Set Straight

One "misinterpretation" Weber set straight dealt with school workers on system-wide contracts.

Officials in Montgomery County, Md., had been told Aug. 26 all school employes qualified for the higher salaries because some persons already had worked under the raised scale before the freeze Aug. 15. This "activated" the contract

Cambodia Wants S. Vietnam Troops To Leave Country

PHNOM PENH (AP) — The government announced today it will begin negotiations next week on the withdrawal of South Vietnamese troops from Cambodia following widespread complaints of looting and brutality by Saigon soldiers.

The acting prime minister Sisowath Sirik Matak, who returned earlier this week from a three-week trip to the United States, Japan and the Philippines, referred to "extortions" by South Vietnamese troops, but stressed the Saigon regime officially opposed lawlessness.

Sirik Matak said that Cambodia had enough men under arms to replace the 10,000 South Vietnamese in his country. But he said, the Cambodians lacked equipment needed to take over two main South Vietnamese bases at Krek, on Highway 7 due east of Phnom Penh, and at the ferry station of Neak Luong on the Mekong River, 40 miles southwest of the capital.

Hasten Day

Sirik Matak said American aid would hasten the day when the Cambodian army would be able to shoulder the responsibility for his nation's defense To this end, the forthcoming visit of the U.S. commander in chief for Pacific, Adm. John McCain, would help the Cambodian army take over from the South Vietnamese, Sirik Matak added.

Relations between the Cambodians and the Vietnamese, traditionally sworn enemies, have been badly strained by the behavior of the Saigon troops here. Officially, both governments have tried to keep the alliance working, recognizing that at least for the time being both South Vietnam and Cambodia need each other.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command reported an American fighter-bomber attacked an antiaircraft site inside North Vietnam in the 55th "protective reaction" strike this year.

The Air Force F105 fired a missile Friday at what was believed to be a 100mm antiaircraft gun, the biggest North Vietnam has, 15 miles north of the demilitarized zone.

The results of the attack were not known.

Maj. Richard Gardner of the U.S. Command said the fighter-bomber was one of two F105s escorting B52 bombers on raids against North Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh trail supply network.

Electronic equipment aboard the F105 indicated that enemy radar was tracking it. At this point, the F105 crossed from Laos into North Vietnam and loosed its missile. Although the gun did not fire, pilots consider radar tracking a hostile action and are authorized to fire first, Gardner said

Hijack Fails; Claims Mother Ailing in Cuba

MIAMI (AP) — A young Cuban refugee who said he was worried about his mother tried to hijack an airliner to his island home Friday, but the attempt was thwarted when he was overpowered by off-duty crewmen and passengers.

Three Eastern Air Lines officers suffered minor stab wounds during the scuffle when Juan Miguel Borges Guerra was overpowered and trussed with headset wires and pillow cases, the FBI said.

After Guerra was arrested, he reportedly told federal agents that his mother was still in Cuba and that her failing health had left him nervous and worried.

The 20-year-old refugee grabbed stewardess Lana Dahlstrom as the plane neared Miami, put a sharpened screwdriver to her throat and demanded to go to Cuba, agents said.

"I said 'Okay, we'll go to Cuba,' and he said "I'll kill you. I don't care whether I live or die,'" Mrs. Dahlstrom recalled after the incident.

The stewardess said the hijacker told her his family was in Cuba and that "he hated the United States."

"Then he said something about they had killed his parents," she added "I didn't understand that. I don't know why it was said."

Only Access, Woman Says

Germans Skeptical on Pact

BERLIN (AP) — West Berliners reacted with caution and skepticism today to the new agreement aimed at reducing East-West tension in central Europe and improving life in their divided city.

They said the most they expect from the Big Four accord signed Friday are visits to East Berlin and easier access to and from West Germany.

"What this agreement means," one woman explained, "is that we can go to the East."

Born in Poland

The woman, in her mid-30s said she was born in what now is Poland and was raised and educated in East Germany and East Berlin. More than anything, she said, she wants to visit her former school friends and go to the Baltic Sea near her birthplace.

West Berliners have not been able to pass through the wall into East Berlin for five years. Nor have they been able to go into East Germany surrounding their city since 1952.

Although the new agreement provides a framework for visits to the East by West Berliners, final details still must be worked out, beginning Monday.

Some Time Coming

"And that," said a middle-aged man, "could be some time in coming."

The accord, signed by the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France, was the first formal agreement on Communist-surrounded Berlin since the Big Four nations divided the German Reich at the end of World War II.

Bars Government

It outlines procedures for allowing West Berliners to move freely to the outside world and into East Berlin, grants the Soviets a consular mission in West Berlin, bars the West German government from official acts in the city and guarantees overland civilian traffic between West Germany and West Berlin will be "facilitated and unimpeded."

What West Berliners fear, according to one man, is "that we will be sold out. That everything we built up will wind up being given to the Communists."

But a construction worker said, "we hope for the best. It could not last the way it was. Maybe it will get better."

Average Working Girl Underpaid $3,500, Survey Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average working girl gets $3,500 a year less than she's worth while equally qualified men get only $27 a year less than they deserve, says a report prepared for the American Psychological Association.

"Although we expected to discover that a woman received fewer occupational rewards than a man with equal scores on the achievement predictors, we were hardly prepared for the size of the discrepancy between observed and expected annual income," said Dr. Teresa Levitin of the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan.

The report, released today, was prepared for the annual meeting of the APA.

Findings Gleaned

Dr. Levitin said the findings were gleaned from a "national probability sample of persons who were living in households, were 16 years old or older, and were working for pay 20 hours a week or more."

She indicated most of the 351 women and 695 men surveyed worked at least 35 hours a week. Before finding out what they were paid, the survey considered several factors, she said, including education, tenure, supervisory responsibility and "occupational prestige."

"The average women actually received $3,458 less than she should have received," the report said. "The comparable figure for the average man ... was $27."

The survey showed more than half the women had annual income discrepancies ranging from $3,000 through $5,999, and "the significant differences were that the women who lost $3,500 or more were the youngest, 16-29 years old, and the oldest, 55 years or more, of the respondents."

'White Collar'

Dr. Levitin added those unpaid $3,500 or more were "white collar workers; those employed in professional, technical, managerial, clerical, and sales work; those who did not belong to a union and those in comparatively small establishments where less than 500 employes worked.

The researcher said "the argument is often made that even though women earn less than equally qualified men, this difference is offset by the better working conditions supposedly enjoyed by women."

But she said her study demonstrated that "women were not receiving better-quality jobs than would have been predicted.

Unity, Religious Education

While U.S. Wondering If to Do It, Belgium Is Doing It

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

While Americans are still wondering how or whether to do it, it's being done in Belgium. And it's working fine, says the top Protestant leader of that mainly Roman Catholic country.

"It's a healthy situation," says the Rev. Dr. Andre J. Pieters, referring to the way various problems still troubling U.S. church people are being handled in his country, including church unity and religious teaching in the schools.

"We allow a free choice," he says of the approach to religious education, long a vexing concern in the United States.

Dr. Pieters an amiable, plain-spoken man and the president of the Protestant Church in Belgium, also notes that denominational unification there has outpaced such developments in the United States.

Similar Efforts

"The uniting of churches in Belgium could almost be proposed as an example for similar efforts in other parts of the world," he said in an interview in Denver, Colo., where he was attending the recent World Methodist Conference.

"The results have all been good."

He also said that Belgium Protestantism is showing steady growth in contrast to slumping membership in most of the Western world, and that relations with Roman Catholicism have become warmly fraternal.

"The old antagonisms have given way to close cooperation," he said.

Sometime this fall, Dr. Pieters and the ecumenical-minded Roman Catholic primate of Belgium, Leo Cardinal Seunens, will join in a ceremony to sign a compact by which each church formally recognizes the validity of the other's baptismal rites.

They already have reached accords on various other matters, including the pastoral care of mixed marriages, which may be either in Catholic or Protestant churches, with joint clerical participation.

Other Matter

But it is the matter of religion and the schools and the broadly satisfying method used in Belgium that most contrasts with the conflicts about it in this country.

Throughout the Belgium public school system, Dr. Pieters said, religion courses are offered but not required, with different classes for Protestant, Catholic and Jewish pupils taught by teachers of those respective faiths.

"These religious programs are integrated at each grade level and students get credit for them," Dr. Pieters said. "It's an important part of education in preparing young people to function in society. Otherwise, they are deprived of learning about a significant aspect of culture."

No Objections

However, he added that "we believe in a plurality of culture" and those who feel that religious knowledge is not useful need not take the courses.

In Belgium, state support is provided both for public schools and Roman Catholic schools, with about 40 per cent of the children going to public schools, and about 60 per cent to Catholic schools.

"Protestants have no objections to some Roman Catholics preferring Catholic schools," Dr. Pieters said. "It makes for healthy competition." He said both groups feel teaching about religion is essential, whether in state or church schools.

With the 100,000 Protestants in Belgium a small minority in the predominantly Roman Catholic country of 11 million, Dr. Pieters said the inducements to Protestant unity were greater than in many other areas.

The united church he heads was formed in 1969 through a merger of Methodists and Protestant Evangelicals—akin to Congregationalists—and further merger is being planned with the Reformed Church—Presbyterian—and another smaller body.

"Unification has brought only positive results," Dr. Pieters said. "It has brought a deeper awareness of Christian fellowship. In joining forces we are able to do many things we were not able to do separately."

The Rev. Robert E. Hintz was installed as pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, Embarrass, and St. Peter Lutheran Church, Pella Opening, Sunday. He is a native of Milwaukee and a graduate of Concordia Teachers College, River Forest, Ill. After serving as Christian day school teacher for 18 years, he enrolled in the Seminary in Springfield, Ill. He completed his work there in Aug. and was ordained Aug. 22 at Eau Claire.

UCC Ordains Appleton Man

Charles Morkin Is Associate Pastor In Nazareth, Penn.

The Rev. Charles Morkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Morkin, Appleton, has been ordained a minister of the United Church of Christ.

Morkin, a native of Appleton and a graduate of Beloit College and Andover Newton Theological School, was ordained a week ago in ceremonies at the First Congregational Church.

A few weeks earlier, he had been examined by the Division of the Church and Ministry of the Northeast Association UCC.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Harry B Gordon of Sandwich, Mass., where Morkin had served as youth director during his seminary days.

The Rev. Paul Olm, minister of the Northeast Wisconsin Association, delivered the prayer of ordination. Other participants were the Rev. Ernest S. Heeren, pastor of the Appleton church; John R. Shepard, lay member; David Pagel, Green Bay, moderator of the Association; the Rev. John Decker, Green Bay, representing the examination committee for the association; the Rev. Alice B. Snow, pastor of Christ Congregational Church; and Mrs. Earl Smith, lay delegate of that congregation, both of Clintonville. His parents presented him with a pulpit robe at the close of the ceremony.

Your Problems

Johnny Writes a Tribute to Ann

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing about the lady whose husband ignored their son because he had a physical deformity. I am a 15-year-old boy and my father has ignored me for as long as I can remember. I don't know why. I was a normal, healthy baby and I was never any trouble to him.

I was always close to my mother. She took me nearly every place she went. I'm sure she did this to make up for my father who didn't pay any attention to me. I spent so much time with my mother that I never learned to things boys usually do, like play ball or wrestle or swim. I guess you might say I was a sissy.

Shortly after my ninth birthday, my mother died. Since then I've felt like an orphan. I have a hard time in school. I guess I need someone to be strict with me and tell me how far to go. My dad never sets any limits. He just ignores me and I do as I please.

The kid next door has a father who is very strict. I envy him although he complains all the time that he can't do anything on account of his old man. He doesn't know how lucky he is.

I don't know why I am writing to you except maybe to say you are sort of a substitute mother for me. I learn a lot from your column. Would you think I was crazy if I told you that sometimes I dream you are my mother? I think I'll sign off before you decide I'm a complete nut. Thank you for everything. — Johnny

Dear Johnny: Yours is one of the nicest letters I've ever received. Thank you for writing. I'll see you in your dreams.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like an honest answer from you. My wife and I celebrated our 35th wedding anniversary last week. We have four married children. They all live in this city.

On that very special day we received a card in the mail — signed by all four children and their spouses. Is it petty of me to feel that they could have done a little more — such as sending a plant, taking us out to dinner, or having us over to one of their homes to celebrate the occasion? My wife didn't say much but she was unusually quiet and downcast the whole day. I took her to the finest restaurant and tried to make it a festive dinner but we both shared the unspoken thought that our children had let us down.

What do you say? — A Dad

Dear Dad: I say it's too bad when four children can't stir themselves to do something a little more imaginative than mail a card to their parents in honor of their 35th anniversary. Who raised those vegetables?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently a woman wrote to you about her emotionally sick husband who earns $1,500 a month but refuses to spend more than $300 a month to live. Maybe my story will make her feel better.

I, too, have an emotionally sick husband. When he was young he was unbelievably poor. Today we are well fixed but he is so money conscious that he runs himself bowlegged buying secondhand junk and super "bargains." Our garage is filled with old musical intruments, bows and arrows, broken toys, trash from auctions and rummage sales, cracked pottery, rusty lawn furniture — you name it and we've got it. Many of his "bargains" are in the original boxes, unopened.

The only way I could get away from the junk was by taking a job as a day-maid for an airline steward who has a neat apartment. I need the "asylum." The only thing that keeps me going is the thought that I'll outlive this miser and be free of him and the junk. — San Antonio

Dear S.A.: What a way to live! Sorry, I don't recommend it. But to each his own.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The winning player tries to play with the odds. While the laws of probability do not guarantee the results of any given hand, it pays to play with the probabilities in the long run. However, even to players who fully understand this, improbable events can sometimes be very frustrating.

Witness the frustrations of today's hand played in the 1971 World Championship between North America II and China. Richard Walsh of Los Angeles was the unlucky declarer (South).

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♦	Pass	4 ♠	All pass

Opening lead: Two of diamonds.

South opened with an all-purpose forcing bid of two clubs, and, over the negative (or waiting) two-diamond response, made the game forcing bid of two spades. South became declarer in the spade game after North bid both his minor suits.

West led the diamond deuce, dummy holding the trick with the queen. Declarer reasoned that the most likely course to success was to play for the loss of only one heart trick. If so, all that would be needed was the almost 70 per cent chance of an even spade division to limit his losses to one in each side suit.

Accordingly, declarer led a low heart from dummy. He deferred playing trumps so that he would be able to ruff a heart in dummy if necessary. East ducked the heart ace and declarer won the queen. Staying with his plan, hearts, playing the eight from his hands.

East won the ten and led a diamond. Declarer won the ace and ruffed his heart king in dummy. He was now ready to draw trumps and claim, conceding a club and a diamond. He received a rude shock when spades broke badly and East turned up with a trump trick.

If declarer had played for the highly improbable layout which actually existed, he would have made an overtrick After winning the diamond queen, a club to his jack would drive out West's ace. Dummy's king and queen would take care of declarer's small diamond and small heart. Since West held a singleton jack of trumps, the trump suit could be handled with no losers and the trump ten would provide an entry to the good clubs.

North America II lost 760 points on this deal, the opponents playing three no trump and making five in the other room. Did Walsh play in accordance with the odds? A very complex question. However, he did adopt a very reasonable line of play and certainly not one that should cost so much.

The Carnage Among Youthful Drivers

The National Transportation Safety Board has recommended that young automobile drivers be given probationary licenses and must demonstrate "their achievement of competence and maturity in driving" before they would be permitted permanent licenses. But there is more to the problem than that.

In recent weeks in this area a number of young people in their teens have been killed or seriously injured because of automobile accidents. This is not unusual either to this area or this time of the year. According to the NTSB, although young people between the ages of 15 and 25 compose only 21 per cent of the population, their highway deaths reach 31 per cent and their involvement in fatal accidents 35 per cent. The "excess loss" — the number over what would have been the regular average for everyone — was itself one-third more than the combined death toll from aviation, marine, railroad and grade crossing accidents. Whatever the statistics, they add up to the same thing: young drivers are involved in a great many more accidents and more serious accidents than any other age category.

This can be explained by the general recklessness of youth, even its enthusiasm, its daring, its willingness to take risks. There also are the more unpleasant aspects of alcohol and drugs, certainly not restricted to one age group but perhaps used by youth with less experience and restraint. Driver education programs, according to the report, have not been noticeably effective. "After more than 60 years of commercial and 37 years of public high school driver education experience there still is no body of data or series of studies" that proves the programs are effective. But there is no way of knowing how high the accident toll might be without such training.

But is the answer actually in probationary licensing which we already have in Wisconsin? Far more important it would seem is speed and the relative lightness of penalties involving traffic violations. How many times do we read in the traffic fine list the names of those convicted once again for driving when licenses have been revoked? There are fines but seldom jail terms for those picked up when driving when intoxicated. And why in the world do automobile manufacturers continue to turn out cars that can go 140 miles an hour when the laws in most states restrict speed to 75 or less?

In Wisconsin several governors, especially Warren Knowles, have tried to bring the attention of the public to the killings on the highways which far exceed that in Vietnam. What we really need are fewer drivers and fewer automobiles. But in the meantime there is little evidence that any measures will be seriously taken to halt the carnage.

Another Successful Baseball Season

Despite their narrow (3-2) defeat in the deciding game of the Midwest League's championship series, the Appleton Foxes continue to rank among the area's best good-will ambassadors. The Foxes carry the city's banner through a 3-state region (Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa), and their reputation has spread farther than that. The Appleton club has become synonymous with winning baseball, excellent facilities and strong civic support. Though they missed winning their fifth consecutive championship playoff this year, they still have the enviable record of capturing four pennants in the last eight seasons.

Foxes personnel and management are to be congratulated on another successful season. Appleton was the only league team to win division titles in both halves of the split season. The Foxes also boasted the league's best hitter (Sam Ewing), the best pitcher (Rich Gossage) and the leading runs-batted-in performer (Lamar Johnson). For the second straight year, a club attendance record (83,881) was established. Special thanks are due various organizations and businesses who "bought out" the park and made tickets available to the public. In this way, a number of new fans "discovered" the Foxes.

That the Foxes continue to thrive is all to the good. They're a business asset to the community. . .they give fans a chance to identify with a professional sports team (the only one in the Fox Cities). . .and they provide a wholesome brand of entertainment. Well done, Foxes! "Play ball!" will again be a welcome cry in 1972 at Goodland Field.

A Dutch Queen Visits Indonesia

When Indonesia gained its independence from the Netherlands not long after the end of World War II, relations were particularly bitter. The Dutch fought the end of the colonial status but their strength in the area had been weakened by the war, the Japanese occupation of Indonesia and the German occupation of the mother country. World opinion, especially that of the United States, taking over as sort of a world policeman and conscience, however mistakenly, was against Holland.

So it is remarkable that Queen Juliana visited Indonesia last week and received a courteous and even an enthusiastic welcome.

Queen Juliana was the first Dutch monarch ever to visit Indonesia which the Netherlands ruled for more than 300 years. This in itself says a great deal about colonial relationships even conceding that travel opportunities and conveniences have changed drastically. Had there been more contact between the rulers in The Hague and the people on Jakarta than rubber plantations, history in Indonesia might have been different.

And yet it is difficult to determine the best way for a people to find identity and purpose. The Indonesians fought for theirs. For two decades they thumbed their noses at Western Europe. But then they almost slid into the Communist colonial pattern under their once highly popular national hero, Bung Sukarno. Now they can look at the Dutch as equals and be personally secure in the knowledge that they have overcome several obstacles on their way to national independence, sovereignty and economic health, and realize they can face other such barriers.

In a way it sometimes seems too bad that the Philippines, to which the United States gave independence of a sort, did not have to seize it as the American colonists did from England almost 200 years ago. There is a certain unity gained in such adversity that is difficult to superimpose.

Queen Juliana is a low key monarch even in an era when royalty mostly serves the purpose of window dressing. But her trip to Indonesia can restore ties that once were iron shackles and now can be acknowledged as bonds between equals — and friends.

Summer Sociables and Balls

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 19, 1871.

The gathering at the residence of Col. Blood, on Tuesday evening last, is said to have been particularly pleasant. It was the Sociable connected with the Methodist Church that called the people together at that time.

There was a very pleasant Sociable on Wednesday evening last, at the residence of Mrs. J. A. Bertschy. The attendance was large and the enjoyment of the hour was supreme. These socials are always looked forward to with eager expectation by our young folks, as well as our older folks — made younger by these occasions.

There is to be a grand Harvest Ball at Bertschy Hall on the evening of the 23rd inst., under the management of J. P. Jones. Wickbold's Band is to furnish the music for this occasion. The programme embraces quadrilles and round dances, and a prize of five bushels of wheat is to be drawn by some lucky persons present. Tickets are $1 per couple.

25 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Aug. 31, 1946.

J. W. Weyenberg, Kaukauna, shot a hole-in-one Friday at the Calumet Golf Club in Chilton.

The state champion degree team of Harvey Pierre Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will compete for national honors at Boston, where members will attend the national encampment. Members of the ritual team who will compete are Marinus Van Weele, Edward Schaar, George Schneider, Max Buske, Ernest Mueller, Julius Hombiette, Charles Thompson, Harvey Rath, Alfred Wyro, Theodore Albrecht and Harry Cunningham.

Hostesses for the potluck luncheon meeting of the St. Joseph Missionary Aid Society were Mrs John Hoh, Mrs. Edward Deschier, Mrs. Clarence Moynette and Mrs. Elizabeth Hill.

The champs included Dick Melcher, Jerry Thurk, Ken Gresens, Andy Vander Heyden, Jim Rogers, Arlo Callahan, George Grevelinger, Donald Blaeze, Fred Rupple, John George, William Brandt and Don Hildeman.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Abendschien, Neenah, were chairmen of the September Frolic for the Hob Nobbers Dance Club. Other members on their committee were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bigalke; Mr. and Mrs. Keen Ginnow, Mr. and Mrs. John Felker, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Drueger. They all were from Neenah.

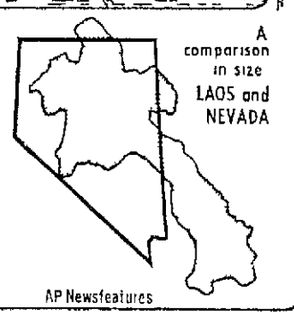

Bob Derus won the Fox Valley Golf Club championship for the 11th time, shooting a 143, three over par for the 36-hole event.

THE SECRET WAR

A Senate Staff Committee discloses that about 30,000 Laotian irregulars backed by the Central Intelligence Agency are operating in Laos.

Despite the irregulars and $350 million in U.S. government aid, there has been no strengthening of the beleaguered government harassed by North Vietnamese and Red Chinese troops.

AP Newsfeatures

By The Associated Press

A senate staff committee has disclosed that about 30,000 Laotian irregulars supported by the Central Intelligence Agency are operating in Laos, but the report said that plus $350 million in aid last year failed to do much for the beleaguered government.

The report said that the irregular force, supported by the CIA had actually dropped nearly 10,000 in two years due to "attrition, principally desertion, heavy casualties and the financial restraints incurred by budgetary limitations."

Despite the aid and the bombing attacks, the report said most observers in Laos feel "the situation there is growing steadily worse and the initiative seems clearly to be in the hands of the enemy" with the number of North Vietnamese and Red Chinese troops reported on the rise. The report was issued recently after five weeks of negotiations between the Senate Foreign Relations Committee including the executive branch, including the CIA. It was censored for publication.

They Won't Talk

Successive administrations, Democratic and Republican, have refused to discuss the extent of U. S. involvement in Laos, a small, landlocked country which is officially neutral.

The main question has been whether Americans are actually engaged in fighting between forces supporting the government and Communist insurgents.

In the fall of 1970, an Associated Press dispatch from Saigon quoted a military source as saying casualties for U. S. Special Forces in Laos were one or two killed and three to 10 wounded each month.

Asked about the figures, a U. S. Command spokesman said, "There are no U. S. combat troops in Laos."

But over a long series of hearings, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has disclosed some of the U. S. involvement in Laos. Among the disclosures:

Air Raids Increase

—Since 1964, the United States has conducted bombing raids in support of the Royal Laotian Army. The number is classified, but Sen. Stuart Symington D-Mo., has said a "handful" in 1964 increased a hundredfold in 1965, then nearly doubled again in 1966.

—As of Jan. 27, 1971, according to the State Department, there were 1,034 Americans in Laos, including 395 for the Agency for International Development, 244 with the military attache's office and 300 employed by Air America and Continental Air Services International, two air lines supported by the CIA.

—Since 1961, the CIA has had an undisclosed number of agents working principally with Meo tribesmen in northern Laos and more recently with Thai troops fighting in Laos and supported by U. S. funds.

A Word Edgewise

Ending Federal Tax Deduction Would Increase State Incomes

BY JOHN P. ROCHE

The recent tax caper in Connecticut highlighted one of the real ironies of American government—the persistent rejection by the majority of a tax system that would operate in its best interest. The Connecticut sequence, in abbreviated form, went roughly as follows: First, the state was broke and the Republican governor called on the Democratic legislature to do something about it. Second, after a series of maneuvers that defy description, the legislature adopted a moderate income tax as an alternative to a monster jump in the sales tax. Third, the governor let it become law, but issued a statement denouncing it. Fourth, unshirted hell broke loose among the good citizens of the Nutmeg State, legislators went into hiding, and then the solons reconvened in special session to reconsider.

During their Byzantine labors they repealed the income tax, raised the sales tax to 6.5 per cent (highest in the nation), and laid on a whole set of Mickey Mouse excises. Allegedly the Democrats hoped the governor (who had been demanding a 7.5 per cent sales tax to meet revenue needs!) would veto their new offering, thus leaving the income tax in operation. Then they could blame the governor for the income tax which they yet realize in their hearts in the only responsible reaction. The governor, however, let them down.

Flat Excise Tax

To go into this labyrinth any further would require an Ariadne so let us leave the good citizens of Connecticut and move to the general proposition which their behavior documents. The American people have a perverse passion for regressive taxation, that is, for "sock-the-poor" tax remedies. The same thing occurred on a less dramatic scale in Massachusetts. We have what poses as an "income tax," though in fact it is a flat excise on income with virtually no progressive features. It will take an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth to authorize a progressive income tax, and the electorate in its wisdom has twice rejected such an amendment: by 8-1 in 1962 and 3-1 in 1968.

So the legislature each year has to dream up fancy tricks to raise the money we need. Now there happens to be one fancy trick that would inject a really progressive element into the system. Forbid the federal tax deduction. As things now stand, one can deduct his federal income tax outlay from gross income for state purposes and — since the federal tax is progressive — this means that those in the higher income brackets get a massive break by comparison with their less well situated fellow citizens. To be specific, the man who pays $20,000 a year federal tax gets exactly the same exemption as the man who pays $500. Each deducts his federal tax from gross income for state computations. To turn it around, net income subject to state tax would increase by $20,000 in the first case; by $500 in the second.

Regressive Tax

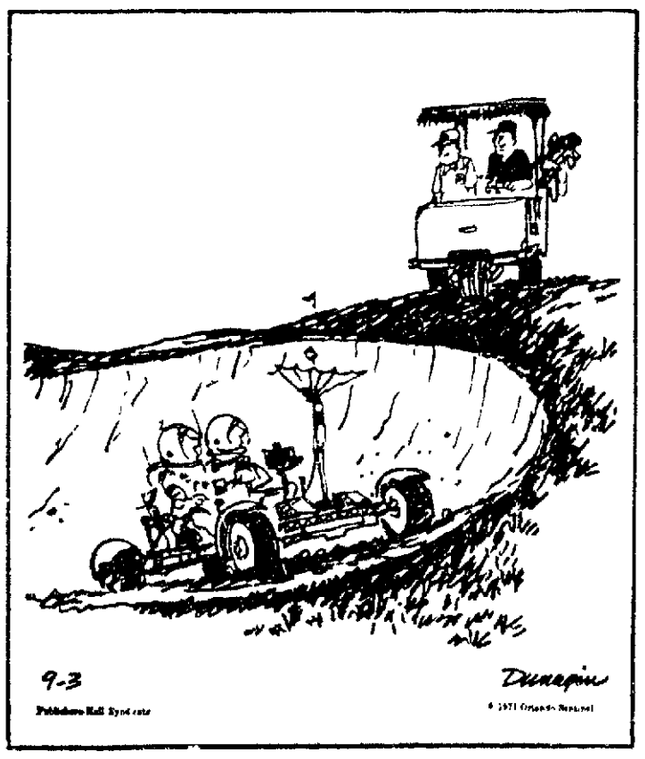

But no — the legislature avoids this common sense injection of the equitable principle and, instead, sits around inventing new regressive taxes, raising the sales tax, and generally playing games. On the national level, while we do have a progressive income tax (with incredible loopholes for the rich), there is also one of the most appalling regressive taxes, one designed brilliantly to hit rich and poor alike: the Social Security tax. Everybody covered pays 5.2 per cent on the first $7,800 of his income — whether he makes $8,000 a year, or $80,000!

Here then we have the paradox a dreadfully inequitable tax structure imposed and retained by majority rule, truly a self-inflicted wound. And at a time when every aspect of our economy seems to be under scrutiny and everybody seems worried about deficits, no major politician has made the rational and obvious proposal: "Soak the rich!"

Wisconsin Report

Supreme Court Again May Get Problem Of Redistricting State

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Among major mysteries of the day is the apparent success of the legislature during a period of nearly eight months in ignoring the constitutional mandate for a decennial apportionment of the state for congressional, state senate and assembly representation.

In every other recent apportionment year, there was pressure from the public, typically generated by indignant editorialists, when the legislature appeared disinclined to do its duty or to be dragging its feet.

Such public response was the more vigorous because of the strangely numerous private citizens who like to indulge in such political arithmetic and who as proud authors of what they were certain were unchallengeably correct formulas for carving up the legislative geography rushed to Madison to demand that their ideas be incorporated into law.

But this year there is a stubborn inertia in the legislature itself and an evident indifference among the amateur dabblers. The man who knows most about the matter, and whose attitude is the key to whatever action or default may come, is saying very little.

Kessler Silent

He is Rep. Frederick Kessler, a young Milwaukee lawyer who heads the Assembly Elections Committee and who has shown less interest in the assignment than might be expected from an ambitious young politician.

When he is asked, Kessler explains that he has been waiting for more refinement of the local census data, down to so-called "block" counts, in order to arrange the state legislative districts accurately and fairly. He has remarked also that the legislative map making will be more difficult this year because in Milwaukee County the assembly lines have traditionally conformed to the county board district lines. That may not be possible this year.

It is a practical point, but it does not answer the question about doing at least some preliminary work in the districting of the rest of the state. The map could be revised from the north to the south, as well as from the south to the north, the onlooker must suppose.

Nor does the complexity of the assembly districting, involving as it will the crossing of county lines for the first time, provide an answer to those who have asked why nothing has yet been done on congressional districting in spite of the increasingly anxious inquiries of incumbents.

There is an illusion that carving up the state for congressional districts is a part of the legislative apportionment process. It is not. It never has been a part of legislative mapping. Ten years ago, the State Supreme Court threw out the legislative districting law and imposed its own map by its own decree. It permitted to stand the congressional redistricting approved by the same legislature at that time.

Stall in Assembly

Reasonable persons must conclude that, in a divided legislature, a bipartisan joint legislative committee is the best and perhaps the only available tool for the enormously difficult, delicate and dangerous job of redistricting.

The Republican senate last January faced up to the obvious and adopted a joint resolution proposing the creation of such a joint bipartisan committee. But it has lanquished these many months in an assembly committee, without the slightest acknowledgement of interest by the Democratic assembly majority. The man who has held it in committee, evidently with the consent of his caucus, is Kessler. If Kessler and his associates want another default, and prefer districting by the court, this is the way in which they can manage it.

Muscular Dystrophy Will Have Telethon on WLUK

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

To MD Supporters:

This forthcoming holiday weekend will bring us the "live" superspectacular Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy telethon for the second year of coast-to-coast viewing.

All fraternal, social, business, labor and civic organizations, along with all individuals, are invited to participate by calling the many volunteers, during the telethon, with pledges to keep our Center on top

Of the eight WLUK viewing area telephone centers last year, ours came through with the highest contribution, but only by your support of your neighbors and friends, the volunteers, who spend many hours manning the telephones and other tasks. For the second year, we have staunch volunteers from many organizations and businesses, such as operators from the PBX Club, Appleton Firefighters Auxiliary, Altrusa Club, Jaycees, Jaycettes, Outagamie County Bank, etc.

If you saw the telethon last year, I'm certain you won't miss it this year, and if you weren't fortunate enough to have had the pleasure of seeing this 20-hour extravaganza, don't miss it this year! The place is Channel 11, WLUK-TV, the time is 10:30 p m Sunday, Sept. 5th, to 5:30 p m Monday, Sept. 6th, and the telephone number to call will be 739-8821

Come on Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Kimberly, Kaukauna, Combined Locks, Little Chute, Freedom, Black Creek, Shiocton, New London, Bear Creek, Sugar Bush, Clintonville, Manawa, Weyauwega, Waupaca, Fremont, Readfield, Dale, Medina, Hortonville, Greenville, and the many others I hope I have't omitted, let's put our Center on top again by contributing to the conquest of the crippling, often fatal, disease — Muscular Dystrophy.

We'll be waiting for your call at 739-8821 from 10:30 Sunday night to 5:30 Monday afternoon. Please don't forget us!

Half Table Tennis Ball Forms Geode Brooch

BY CAPPY DICK

Half of a discarded table tennis ball can be turned into a glittering miniature geode

Rhinestones with the aid of glue and rhinestones.

Figure one shows what the brooch will look like after the inside has been lined with rhinestones. Figure two shows how a small safety pin is to be taped to the back of it so it can be worn on a dress as the girl is doing in figute 3.

Spread glue inside the half ball, then, with the help of tweezers, set the flat-back rhinestones in place. The smaller these rhinestones are, the easier it will be to fit them snugly against each other so the entire inside surface of the ball is covered.

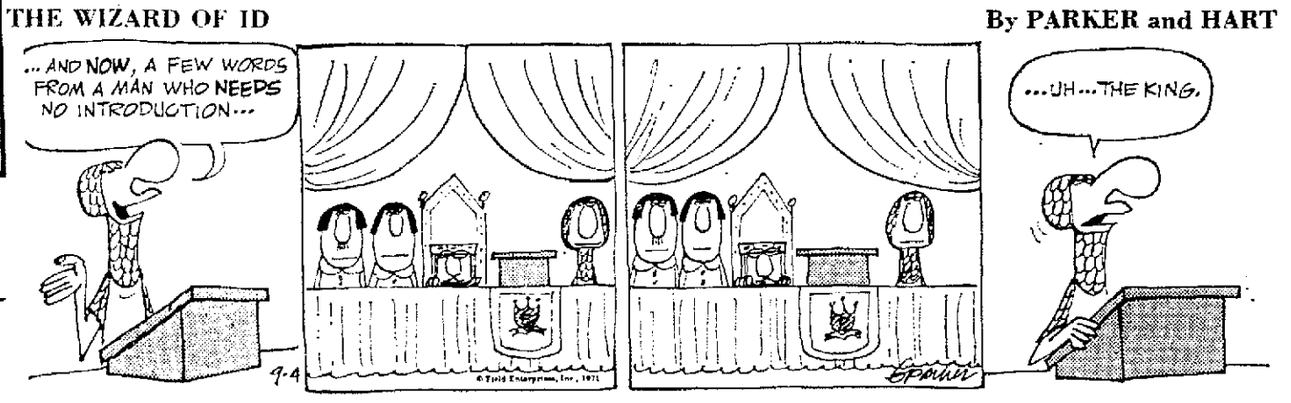

When the glue has dried, attach the safety pin to the back, completing the project.

If no rhinestones are available to you, sequins may be used to line the inside of the ball. It is advisable to overlap them in order to cover the interior properly.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN

Farmers Promised Bill to Guarantee Fair Farm Wages

CHICAGO (AP) — House Agriculture Committee Chairman W.R. Poage suggested today that the government guarantee fair farm labor wages when crop prices are depressed.

"Farmers can't pay industrial wages and sell for sub-parity prices. We can hardly hope to get larger direct production payments. Laborers can't live on what you can pay them out of your present prices," the Texas Democrat said in a speech prepared for a national dairymen's organization, Associated Milk Producers, Inc.

More Friends

"Politically, workers have more friends than do farmers," he added. Congress appropriates about $3.5 billion a year to supplement the prices farmers get on basic commodities, he said.

Agriculture Department statistics, he said, show that with these price support payments included, farmers now get 74 per cent of parity on their crops. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

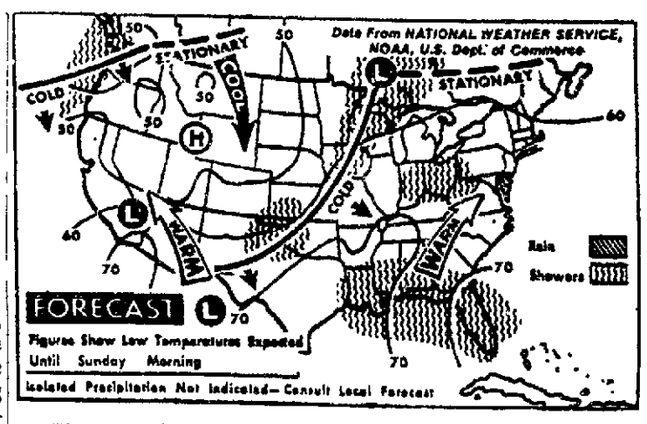

Poage, a 30-year veteran on the Agriculture Committee, said that under a new plan he has in mind, the amount of the government's share in keeping fair farm wages would be determined by the percentage of parity farmers get for their commodities.

A farmer today cannot pay laborers wages comparable to those paid in industry, he said. "I am, therefore, now working on possible legislation which would tie government assistance for farm workers to the relation between farm prices and the parity level," he added.

"I have in mind a plan whereby we would determine parity for agricultural products just as we do now, then set a reasonable figure of income for agricultural workers, a figure which Congress might decide. We would provide that the farmer be required to pay only such percentage of this wage as the price of his product bore to full parity, with the government making up the difference between that percentage and full parity.

"In other words, if the wage were set at $2 per hour and if farm prices were at 75 per cent of parity, then the farmer would pay the worker only $1.50 per hour and the government would supplement this with a wage adjustment of 50 cents per hour.

"If farm prices went up, the farmer's share of the wage would go up. If farm prices fell, the government costs would go up," he said.

for the entire system, they were told.

The NEA forwarded this ruling to its 9,000 local affiliates and estimated this and other rulings would qualify about 80 per cent of the nation's 1.2 million teachers for expected fall raises.

Walker warned in midweek that some groups had misinterpreted the rulings and said more than 20 per cent of the teachers would get wage hikes.

Weber followed up Friday at a news conference, saying the Montgomery County ruling was erroneous and couldn't be copied.

"In a sense we've dropped the (interpretation) because it was mischievous," Weber said.

He called it a "golden sheep" concept, where one person working prior to Aug. 15 on the higher pay scale could pull all others onto the higher level with him even if no one else actually worked.

Treated as Others

Weber said teachers will be treated as other workers affected by the freeze: If they worked, or were eligible to, on the higher salary base before Aug. 15, they get their scheduled pay raise. If not, they don't. Eligible to work in this case means the worker accrued earnings at the new rate before Aug. 15.

"If the government in fact reversed its position on Montgomery County, that is incredible. . . It's absolutely amazing," said NEA general counsel Robert Chanin.

7 In Family Shot to Death In Arizona

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Seven persons, including four children ranging in age from 10 years to nine months, were shot to death in their modest east-side home late Friday night.

Police Sgt. Lowell Strickland identified the victims as Frank Martin, 18, his wife, Pam, 16, her mother, Novella Bentley, 42, and four other children of Mrs. Bentley—Tina, 10, Adam, 3, Tracy, 1, and Charlotte, nine months. Mrs. Bentley's daughter Debbie, 12, was visiting a friend at the time.

Police said they arrived at the small frame house while the shooting was in progress. Officers said they arrested a man as he ran from the house and leaped a fence into an alley.

Strickland said neighbors identified the man to police variously as John Friendman and John Freeman, but the suspect carried no identification papers and refused to talk to police.

Strickland said the suspect was taken to a hospital to be treated for two leg wounds that officers said apparently were self-inflicted. Strickland said the man would be booked on murder charges after treatment at the hospital.

Soldier Killed as Jeep Strikes Mine in Ulster

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A British soldier killed when his Jeep hit a mine early today was the latest victim of a swelling wave of violence across Northern Ireland.

The mine blasted a three-ton Jeep on patrol northwest of Newry near the border with the Irish Republic, an army spokesman said. One soldier died in a hospital and the other two were treated for cuts and shock.

Civilian Burned

A civilian burned to death earlier in a Newry drapery shop that police said was hit by a terrorist bomb. Troops trying to protect firemen from a crowd throwing stones arrested eight persons, the spokesman said.

In a Friday night incident, 18-month-old Angela Gallagher was shot through the head by a ricocheting bullet aimed by terrorists at a British patrol in the Roman Catholic Falls Church area of Belfast.

Killers Escaped

Police said the killers, who escaped in a car, were members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army. The militant "provisional" wing of the IRA, however, denied any of its members were involved and warned civilians to stay away from places likely to be frequented by British troops the militants have sworn to kill.

Told of the child's death, Northern Ireland's minister for community relations, David Bleakley said, "We have experienced savagry on an unbelievable scale. Now, to add to the horror, the most innocent of all—a tiny child—has been slaughtered."

Protestant Prime Minister Brian Faulkner said the terror had escalated into "sickening and indiscriminate violence."

Hearing on DNR Public Relations Set

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Hearings are being scheduled to look into a "breakdown in public relations" between citizens, the legislature and the Department of Natural Resources, a legislator said Thursday.

The Natural Resources and Environmental Quality committees will also investigate personnel, land acquisition and other policies, chairman Lewis T. Mittness, D-Janesville, and James Lynn, D-West Allis, announced.

They were prompted by two members of their committees who originally sought a more extensive probe of department policy.

Robert Thompson, D-Poynette, and Francis Byers, R-Marion, accused the department of making conflicting policy decisions.

Byers said pro-department elements in the Assembly Democratic caucus toned down the aims of the hearings.

Department orders involving solid waste disposal and water pollution have sometimes been unrealistic and harsh on municipalities, he said.

Byers said he felt there are conflicts of interest in the department, which is the "policeman, judge, jury and executioner" in some matters.

College Notes

Five Valley Students Earn Honors, Degrees

Honors, scholarships and degrees have been earned by five Valley students attending four schools.

Douglas Starck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Starck, 1530 W. Prospect Ave., Appleton, has been placed on the dean's list at the University of Pennsylvania, Wharton School of Finance and Commerce. He earned a straight A average.

Sister Barbara Haase, daughter of Mrs. Leone Haase, 1504 W. Brewster St., Appleton, has completed a post-graduate course at Marquette University, Milwaukee, and is a remedial reading consultant for Wisconsin.

Timothy L. Bruner, son of Mr. and Mrs N. E. Bruner, 603 N. Division St., Appleton, has been appointed to the student association cabinet at Harding College, Searcy, Ark. He will serve as publications chairman for the president, coordinating student association activities for the information office.

Two area students have been awarded graduate assistantships to continue for their master degrees at Stevens Point State University. They are Ellen Dalum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Dalum, route 2, Tigerton, majoring in home economics, and Joyce Spencer, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Spencer, Waupaca, majoring in elementary education.

State Inaction Could Cause Local Tax Hike

Legislature Focuses On Amount of Funds For School Districts

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Refusal of the legislature to increase the state school aid formula could add $45 million to Wisconsin's local property tax bills next year, state superintendent of Public Instruction William Kahl said Thursday.

Kahl said his department estimates $229 million in general school aids would be paid in 1971-72 under a compromise plan before the legislative budget conference committee.

Last year the school aid formula returned $198 million to school districts, he said, but this would drop to about $184 million if the formula is unchanged.

Kahl also commented in an interview on the California Supreme Court ruling that California's public school financing system, based largely on local property taxes, is unconstitutional. He said the decision underscored the need for the state and federal government "to become more deeply involved in funding of education at local levels."

Wisconsin, he said, is a "a little better off than other states" because it has operated on the concept of equalizing opportunity by putting state resources into districts where local resources are low.

Police & Fire Beat

A 9-year-old boy was referred to Appleton police juvenile officers after he was apprehended shoplifting at the Snyder Drug store, 700 W. Wisconsin Ave. Wednesday afternoon. The boy took a 10 cent item.

Carla Planert, route 2, Bear Creek, reported to Outagamie County sheriff's officials that several stereo tapes were taken from her auto while it was parked in Freedom Monday night. The tapes are valued at $75.

A 12-year-old girl was apprehended shoplifting at the J. C. Penney Store, 300 W. College Ave., Wednesday afternoon. The girl was referred to Appleton police juvenile officers.

Appleton firemen were called to a car fire at the intersection of Walden and John streets at 10:59 p.m., Wednesday. An auto driven by Robert Stine, Seymour, flooded and started to burn.

KAUKAUNA — Police are investigating a break-in and theft of change from Carsten's Elevator, First St., reported about 6:50 a.m. Wednesday.

Entry was gained by removing a door adjacent to a railway siding on which box cars were parked. A soft drink machine was broken into and money taken from desk drawers which were rifled. Exact amount of the loss was not known, but police indicated it was less than $100. An unsuccessful attempt was made to break into a locked safe, police said.

Courts

Ralph Hoeft, 37, 1926 E. Marquette St., Appleton, was sentenced to one year in the Outagamie County Jail and granted Huber Law privileges after he pleaded guilty to forging an endorsement on a $300 check.

Hoeft cashed the check written to Virginia Sommer at an Appleton business. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer ordered Hoeft to make restitution for the check.

Outagamie County Judge Raymond P. Dohr ordered a presentence investigation for William Fitch, 27, 1753 N. Ullman St., Appleton, after Fitch was found guilty of 11 counts of passing worthless checks and one count of burglary.

Fitch was charged with cashing over $700 worth of checks and stealing a set of tools valued under $100.

Gregory Reiter, 19, of 2608 Fairfield Court was fined $50 and costs after he was found guilty of taking tape recordings valued at $26.41 from Treasure Island Aug. 26.

Reiter pleaded guilty to the charge in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Tuesday.

To Your Good Health

Bacteria Is Cause of Perspiration Stain

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M. D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a problem when I perspire. It stains and turns my clothes yellow. I have tried just about all the deodorant sprays.

This is very embarrassing when you have to wear white uniforms. I would appreciate any help. — S. L.

Thosteson

I think I can help. First of all, don't worry about all perspiration. There are two types of sweat glands, called eccrine and apocrine.

The first, and more numerous, ones release a watery perspiration which evaporates and doesn't cause much trouble.

The apocrine glands, which are larger, give off an odorous perspiration which isn't as close to being plain water. It is odorous, but besides that, the matter in it is affected by bacterial action. This bacterial action is what causes the yellow color that bothers you (and your uniforms).

We all have a crop of bacteria on our skins; ordinary baths won't get rid of it. By way of example, you doubtless know that surgeons spend minutes washing their hands with special soaps before starting an operation — and they do so even though they don surgical gloves afterwards. This is just an example of how difficult it is to displace all of the bacteria we carry on our skins.

Now to apply this to your problem. The apocrine glands are situated in hairy areas of the skin, i.e., the armpits and around the genitals. It's the armpits that bother you.

So, if you do not do so already, shave the armpits and keep them shaved. The hair, like the skin, can harbor bacteria.

Then use an antiseptic soap in the armpits daily, to keep bacterial population at a minimum. After using the soap, rinse thoroughly.

You can use antiperspirants in addition, and they will doubtless help, but the important thing is to reduce the amount of bacteria in that area.

Some people have more apocrine secretion than others, but the secret to solving your problem is not to prevent perspiration but to get rid of the bacteria.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 10-year-old daughter has been losing her hair for nine months. I believe this is called alopecia areata. I have read this is not a new disease but I have taken her to different doctors and they have all told me there is nothing that can be done. I would appreciate information. — F. B.

I confess that we don't know as much about hair growth (and loss) as we wish we did. It is true, however, that alopecia areata (patchy, "area" baldness) is not new. And as a general thing, it is also true that usually there is nothing to do about it, except wait.

Most of the time, the hair grows back again. There is no visible sign of disease in the scalp. It may be a matter of breaking the hair shaft.

Should the trouble recur later, it is believed that various methods of stimulating the scalp can help, but this has to be done carefully to avoid risk of damaging the scalp. The best suggestion I can make is that you see a dermatologist, and be patient.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm sure there are thousands of people with the same problem as mine. I have an average frame but too large a bust. Is there anything a woman can do to reduce the size of the bust? — Mrs. J. B.

Sometimes, of course, it's mainly a matter of overweight. If not, surgical correction can be made — it's a well-accepted procedure and has been used for many years now. Not a simple operation, obviously, but the techniques have been well worked up.

"Bad Breath Can Be Corrected" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet explaining the causes and cure of bad breath. For a copy write to him in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Barbers Fight Male Trek to Beauty Parlor

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The running dispute between the organized barbers of the state, mostly male and mostly catering to men customers, and the organized cosmetologists, mostly female and mostly catering to women, has been dumped in the lap of Atty. Gen. Robert Warren.

The Assembly, faced with proposals and counterproposals from the rival groups, asked Warren and the state Department of Justice for help and advice.

It seems that some of the cosmetologists occasionally shape, cut or singe the hair of male customers. Barbers, worried about the decline of their trade under the pressure of changing male hair styles are resentfully aware of this trend.

So, the barber lobby has attacked the situation with a bill proposing to outlaw such male hair dressing by cosmetologists unless the ladies have compiled with the apprenticeship and educational requirements imposed by law upon the barbers.

Now the cosmetologists have counterattacked by persuading the Assembly to ask the attorney general to rule whether:

— Such a proposed act would violate the civil liberties guarantees of the United States constitution.

— Such a restriction would transgress the United States civil rights act of 1964.

— Such a law would violate the equal opportunity laws enacted by the legislature and the Congress.

Warren had no comment. Under the laws governing his office, he is required to advise the Legislature on legal questions when asked to do so.

Kaukauna Announces Holiday Pickup Plan

KAUKAUNA — Garbage and rubbish pickup normally scheduled on Monday will be collected Tuesday together with the regular Tuesday pickup because of the Labor Day weekend, according to street foreman Donald Schaefer.

He asked residents to have items set at the curb or on alley lot lines early Tuesday morning to facilitate collection.

Medicare Can Offer Early Benefits to Under-65 Wives

In order to receive Medicare benefits, a person must be age 65 or older.

However, in situations where a wife is older than her husband, she can apply for Medicare as soon as she is age 65 even though her husband is not old enough and continues to work.

The Appleton Social Security office stresses that as soon as a male worker is age 62, he may file for benefit payments. He may not receive cash payments if he continues working full time, but his wife is eligible as soon as she becomes 65.

Wives who have never worked on jobs covered by Social Security can obtain Medicare benefits based on the husband's employment record. The qualification is that her husband be at least age 62, have filed an application for Social Security payments, and have worked regularly on jobs covered by the law.

She then can file an application as early as three months before she is 65, and receive Medicare coverage. Those females who have worked might be eligible for the coverage in their own right.

More information is available at the Appleton Social Security office.

KIMBERLY — A 14-year-old Kimberly girl was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital Friday evening after she was struck by a motorcycle while walking along Sunset Drive.

Sharon Biechler, 545 W. Kimberly Ave., sustained a broken leg and bruises in the accident.

According to Kimberly police she was walking west along the side of the road about 6:30 p.m. with three companions. She was struck by an eastbound cycle.

The police are withholding the name of the 16-year-old cyclist pending further investigation.

Adams to Start Review Of City Budget Requests

BY FRANK CHURCH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — City operational budgets have been submitted by department heads. They will be reviewed by Mayor James Adams next week, and then sent on for committee consideration.

While detailed figures aren't available for most of the budgets, Adams says that increases over 1971 budget figures were held within the five-to-eight per cent range he had specified.

"But there's going to have to be some cuts made," he added. Adams said he would add "addendums" to some of the budgets, which would include his recommendations for action in committees.

Capital Outlay requests have already been submitted for public works and park and recreation. The plans for park and recreation will not include any spending of city funds, because spending for projects proposed for next year will be funded by federal and state grants, donations and monies from the sale of the old Menasha Ballpark.

The public works budget, on the other hand, calls for about $368,344 in construction outlay expenditures, some $294,069 of which would be on the tax rolls. About $63,000 of that could be cut if the City Council decides to go along with Adams recommendation to forget about a sanitary landfill operation next year, but more money (about $60,000) could be added for last minute additions Public Works Director Bruno Haas has recommended.

Two 'Ifs'

Two big "ifs" still to come in are the budgets for the Menasha school district and the Neenah-Menasha sewerage commission. Local officials are worried that the latter could be high, with proposed incinerator improvements and other projects slated for spending next year.

Officials have been tough on the school budget. If present plans are carried out (a vote of the Fiscal Control Body is due Tuesday), the proposed $2,150,000 capital improvements plan for the school district could be placed on an April, 1972 referendum ballot.

Shared Tax

The present hassle in Madison over shared tax formulas could also effect the Menasha tax rate significantly in 1972. If the proposal of Gov. Patrick Lucey is carried out, for example, the city could loose nearly $80,000 in shared taxes next year which is about 60 cents per $1,000 on the tax rate.

An alternative Republican proposal would cost the city even more.

Negotiations with city employes will probably not get underway until the present 90-day wage-price freeze is ended or modified. Adams, however, said that the Nixon administration's shutting off of all pay raises for most federal employes until July, 1972, may point the way for local units of government.

TWIN CITY news

Neenah 1971 Building Pace Continues to Lag

NEENAH — By the end of August, the city's building picture continued to lag substantially behind that of a year ago, despite a $510,000 shot in the arm with a building permit for the city's 72-stall parking ramp.

For the first eight months of 1971 the total building was $2.2 million compared to $7.2 million a year ago. However, in 1970, a $3.2 million high school and $1.2 million motel were major factors in keeping the totals up.

August did show an increase over the same month a year ago with $280,416 in permits being issued compared to $245,749 for the August of 1970.

Home Building Slows

Home building also is continuing to reflect a slow economy with only 63 being built for the first eight months, four of which came in August. In August of 1970, the total was 70 with seven permits being issued during the month. Two years ago, in 1969, the number of new homes totaled 96, showing the steady decline as inflation started to take its toll.

In addition to the half million dollar parking ramp there was a $174,000 church addition, which also will not show up on the city's tax rolls or raise the city's tax base. Both are tax exempt.

Two Offices

However, two office buildings, valued at a total of $122,000 will be on the tax rolls as will a $40,000 pattern shop addition.

In contrast to a year ago when new homes totaled 70, the residential remodelings added up to 100. In 1971 the homes are down to 63 while remodelings are 127, which is 17 more than a year ago, indicating that persons may be deciding to spend a few dollars remodeling and keeping their old homes, instead of investing the money in new homes.

Holiday Garbage Pickup Changes

NEENAH-MENASHA — Garbage pickup runs in the Twin Cities will be altered next week due to the holiday on Monday.

In Menasha, pickup schedules will be advanced one day. In other words, pickups on Monday will be moved to Tuesday and Tuesday pickups will be moved to Wednesday.

In Neenah, the same will occur. Also, there will be no noncombustible pickups on Wednesday in wards 1, 3 and 5.

Chief Defends Handling of Demonstrators

Claims Better Preparation Seen For Next Protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson has defended his handling of the Mayday demonstrations here and says future demonstrators will be treated in similar fashion.

"I don't intend to see this city closed down," he told the National Press Club Friday. But he added future demonstrations, such as one planned for Oct. 25, would be treated differently in that "we're going to have better detention facilities."

One of the major criticisms of police handling of the May 3 demonstrations was that officers who arrested protestors were not able to identify them in court.

Wire Enclosure

A second criticism was that many of the Mayday demonstrators were jammed behind a wire enclosure near Robert F. Kennedy Stadium.

Many of the 7,000 arrested were freed because the short-cut booking procedure used by police provided no link between them and demonstrators.

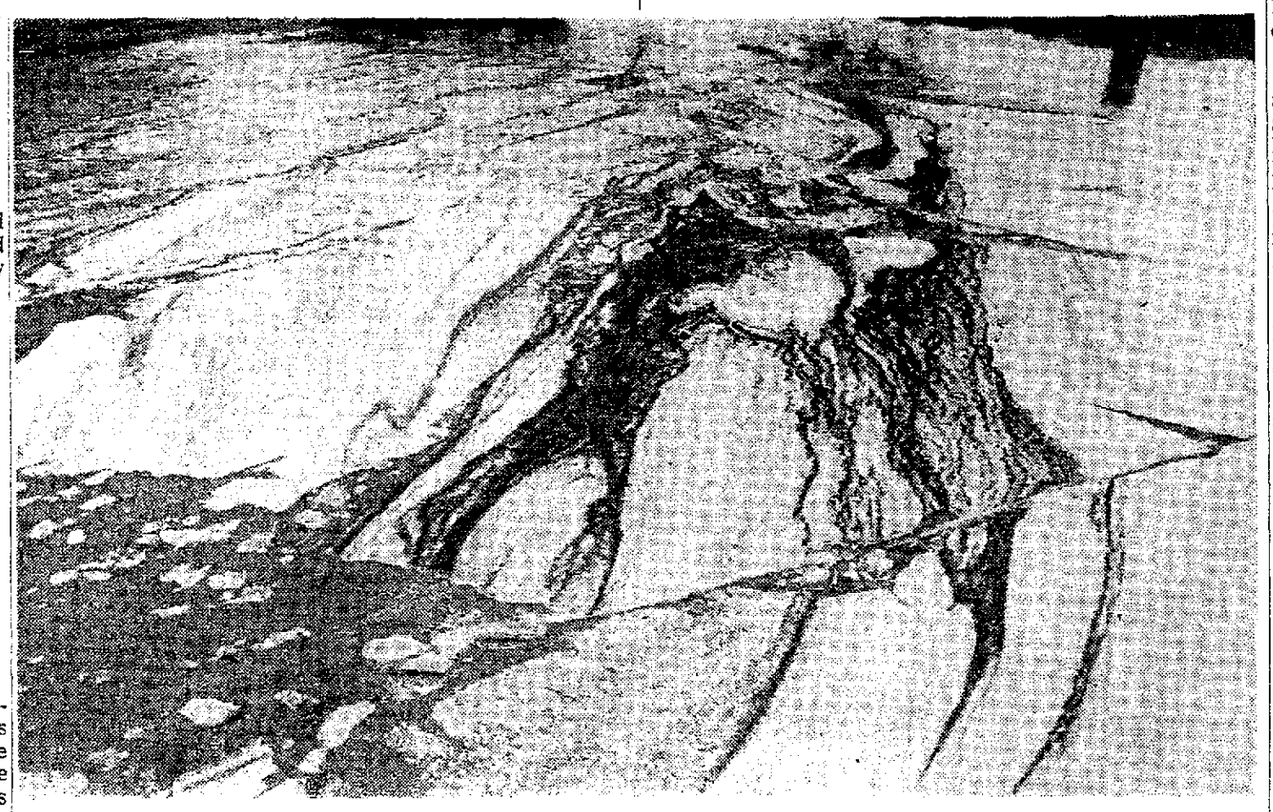

One of the Chicago seven defendants, John Froines, has been trying to promote a demonstration on Veteran's Day, Oct. 25. The National Peace Action Coalition has set Oct. 25 to Nov. 5 as National Peace Action Weeks as a buildup to regional antiwar demonstrations Nov. 6 in 15 cities, including Washington.

Mayday Arrests

Wilson said much of "the rhetoric" about the Mayday arrests, "especially the claims that prisoners were not fed or that serious health problems resulted, is propaganda not supported by the facts."

"Still," he said, "given the same situation again, I would like to see the government better prepared than it was in May to handle many thousands of arrests.

"Again the simple fact is that on May 3 we did not anticipate the necessity or capacity to arrest some 7,000 persons. When we were forced to take action, we also were forced, even as the demonstrators had planned, to press into use facilities which provided a minimum of security, shelter and sanitary facilities."

Wittman Field

Port Terminal to Open Nov. 1

BY PETE BACH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — Opening day of the new terminal building at Wittman Field has been scheduled for Nov. 1 according to Supv. Kenneth Seefeld, Chairman of the Winnebago County Aviation Committee.

Airport Manager Michael Brock, who said this week that construction has proceeded "very nicely" since the carpenters' strike, fixed its opening between Thanksgiving and Christmas Day.

Brock indicated that the sooner the $1.4 million project is completed the better, since the port has recorded "healthy increases in practically every area" including passengers, freight and mail.

Seefeld said although interior work remains, it is minimized because the structure is almost entirely composed of steel and brick. Tile flooring has now been laid.

Seefeld, who also serves on a special building committee created in part to keep abreast of the construction activities of the terminal, predicted that the parking lot will be done no later than mid-October.

The supervisor remarked that because of its woeful lack of space, the present terminal building effectively serves "one-half" an airline.

The port is presently served by North Central Airlines. But the new terminal, with six times the space of the present facility, will easily accomodate the needs of two commercial airlines, Seefeld explained.

Extension of the east end of the concrete apron on one side of the terminal is stalled, he said, pending federal government approval of funds. That portion of the project is eligible for up to 50 per cent aid.

One feature of the parking lot, Seefeld pointed out, is the fact that provisions were made to expand its 500 vehicle capacity if necessary.

Construction funds for the new port generated through the sale of a bond issue of a couple of million dollars about a year ago which additionally was to provide funding for work to the Lake Buttes Des Morts bridge and the new Main Street bridge here.

General construction duties were awarded to Ben Ganther Construction Co., Oshkosh, the low base bidder at $1,090,509.

Car Strikes RR Signal, Man Hurt

NEENAH — George V. Skowronski, 42, route 1, Sugar Tree Lane, sustained a sore left forearm when his car went out of control at 12:01 p.m. Friday and hit a signal post at the intersection of E. Forest Avenue and the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad tracks.

Police said Skowronski reportedly dropped something on the floor, and in reaching down to pick it up, lost control of the vehicle. He was headed east on Forest.

Fair Opens With Attendance High

CHILTON — A record gate of 4,000 attended the Calumet County Fair Friday night with a large number of them children taking advantage of the reduced ride prices of kiddie day.

The hot, humid weather made it difficult for some exhibitors to keep their animals calm, cool and collected. They sprayed the livestock most of the day with cooling water.

Some exhibitors waited until the early hours of the evening when temperatures dropped to bring in their animals.

Snowmobile races tonight will begin at 8 p.m.

A horsepulling contest will be Sunday morning in light and heavy divisions starting at 10. A horse show will feature saddle and pony pulling events.

Chance Saves Muskie From Making Speech

Schedule Conflict Cancels Promised Campaign Speech for Charles Evers

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Caught on the horns of a nasty political dilemma, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine has decided that a highly fortuitous scheduling conflict will prevent him from making a promised campaign speech in Mississippi for black independent gubernatorial nomi- have drastically damaged Muskie have drasticaly damaged Muskie with party professionals.

Evans

Novak

Before the conflict in dates was discovered, Muskie had been under growing pressure from some advisers to pass up the trip to Mississippi. But he had made the commitment, and he had specifically set aside Oct. 1 for the trip to Mississippi. He flatly informed his staff that he would not renege.

Considering the high stakes, that was a remarkable decision of the leading Democratic Presidential prospect. In Mississippi, Muskie would have been campaigning against William Waller, a national Democrat and a racial moderate who is certain to overwhelm Evers in the November election. Waller will exert paramount control over the Mississippi delegation to the Miami convention next summer.

Worse still, Muskie's intervention against his party's nominee in Mississippi would have sent shock waves throughout the South, where a new breed of moderate Democrats was elected to state houses in Arkansas, Georgia, Florida and South Carolina last November.

Promise Support

At least one of these new governors has privately made known his strong inclination to support Muskie for the Democratic nomination. Another Southern governor, Robert Scott of North Carolina, has publicly endorsed Muskie. Thus, a Muskie trip south for Evers, on grounds that Evers represents the "loyalist" faction of the party, would have risked a dangerous anti-Muskie revolt not just in Mississippi but throughout the South.

Moreover, Charles Evers, the brother of the slain Medgar Evers and a courageous worker in early civil rights battles, can claim to represent the Democratic party of Mississippi only by a very long stretch of imagination.

Now the mayor of Fayette, Evers refused to enter the gubernatorial nomination and announced June 1 that he would run as an independent. Last fall, in a speech at Union College in upstate New York, he proclaimed that he was "not a Democrat or a Republican, but if I could vote in New York I would vote for Nelson Rockefeller" — the Republican governor running for re-election. Rockefeller seized on that endorsement and used it in black precincts throughout New York state.

Warfare Quieting

Beyond this, the bitter racist and factional warfare that split the Democratic party in Mississippi in 1964 during the days of racist Gov. Ross Barnett is quieting. Thus, in a backroom ploy, Evers tried to influence Mississippi blacks to vote for segregationist Jimmy Swan in the primary, but had only marginal success. With Swan the nominee, Evers thought his chance of winning the general election would be enhanced (there is no Republican in the race).

But Waller is no Jimmy Swan. After the primary, he announced that he would support the Democratic Presidential nominee no matter whom the convention nominated.

Last spring, when Evers still planned to enter the Democratic primary, he rounded up a glamorous list of national Democrats as co-chairmen of his campaign committee, including Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, George McGovern of South Dakota and Birch Bayh of Indiana.

Muskie Declined

Muskie and Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington declined, Muskie on grounds that if he lent his name to one statewide candidate he would have to do the same for others. But he helped with Evers' fund-raising, handing him a check on May 26 for $2,000. He then promised to make a campaign appearance in Mississippi, sealing it with an Aug. 25 telephone offer to appear on Oct. 1.

The next day Evers notified Muskie that Oct. 1 was "not acceptable". Evers would be at a New Jersey fund-raiser that day. Last Wednesday, Muskie once again offered Oct. 1 as his only open date that month. He got the same reply: Evers was committed elsewhere.

That lets him off the hook, but only by chance. It was a hook that almost every politician in the Democratic party knows he should never have allowed himself to get on in the first place.

Four Teens Spend Night on Big Lake After Boat Quits

NEENAH — Four teen - agers were safe Friday morning after drifting all night in an 18-foot boat on Lake Winnebago and ending up on the rocks at the end of Lake Shore Drive, Neenah.

Neenah police discovered the boat at 5 a.m. Friday and towed it to Smith Park.

Police said that on the boat were Bob Jensen, 17, Milwaukee; Phillip Winski, 18, 1108 E. Pershing St; Cheryl Harvey, 17, 1236 E. Glendale Ave.; and Dianne Smyrmeos, 17, 913 E. Commercial St., all from Appleton.

The boat is owned by John G. Bogusz, Chicago.

Police said the four teen-agers started off from Smith Park, Menasha, at 10:30 p.m. Thursday night, had engine trouble and drifted all night until they ended up on the rocks at the lighthouse.

Warehouse Specialist Inc. is clearing land of trees and shrubs at Brighton Beach to make way for a 90,000 square foot warehouse. The facility, which will cost in excess of $250,000, is expected to be completed around March 1. It will be located on the north side of the railroad tracks on Brighton Beach Road. Mayor Dyke Says State Should Give Emergency Funds

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Legislators ought to provide emergency assistance to municipal treasuries while they prolong their debate over a 1971-73 state budget, an annoyed Mayor William Dyke said Friday.

The mayor of the state capital city said municipal officials are unable to draw up their local budgets because legislators have not resolved disputes over reform of the system, under which Wisconsin shares its tax revenues with cities.

A legislative conference committee has offered a compromise plan, but Senate Republicans have shown hostility toward the formula being backed by Assembly Democrats.

The dispute has helped stall adoption of a state budget which was to have gone into effect July 1.

Dyke said Friday he has legislative assurances that measures will be introduced, calling for a $26 million emergency fund for cities.

Distribution of the fund would parallel existing revenue sharing methods until legislators decide whether to adopt a new formula or maintain the 1969-71 pattern.

The mayor declined to say what he thinks the legislature could use as a fiscal source for the emergency fund.

Cities need "extra money right now," Dyke said.

The compromise committee, having voted to remain idle on the budget until Senate Republicans act on tax sharing, went into recess Thursday for at least a week and possibly until Sept. 28.

Dyke's plan would provide Milwaukee with $10.5 million in addition to existing state aid, Madison with $1.7 million, Eau Claire about $400,000 and La-Crosse about $560,000. A city with a population exceeding 250,000 would gain $15 per citizen. Smaller cities would get $10 or less.

Meanwhile, the existing formula attracted Dyke's protest.

He said it needs reforming because it doesn't "take into consideration that spending patterns of cities change as the city gets larger."

OSU Student Electrocuted

Police Arrive As Youth Plunges From Light Pole

OSHKOSH — An Oshkosh State University student from Lake Forest, Ill. was electrocuted Friday when he climbed a light pole.

A Crime Check alert about 1:30 p.m. sent Oshkosh police to the 400 block of N. Westfield Street in time to see a young man fall from near the top of a light pole he was climbing.

Coroner Duane I. Moore said that death was due to electrocution.

Identification of the young man was withheld until next of kin could be notified. Lake Forest authorities reported the young man's parents were vacationing in Michigan and efforts are being made to locate them.

The young man, about 21, was dead on arrival at Mercy Medical Center where he was taken by Moore Ambulance. Utility company spokesmen said his body had blown a transformer.

Police said they found a second youth, Michael J. Wightman, 435 N. Westfield St., at the scene when they arrived, pleading with him to come down. He told police he knew the victim only as Rick and that they had been chatting before the victim said he thought he could climb the pole. Wightman was treated for shock at Mercy Medical Center and released.

Police had called to the young man not to go any higher as they saw him start over the back of the street light. One officer was radioing for a fire truck with aerial ladder when there was a flash from the pole and the young man fell to the ground. They applied first aid until the ambulance arrived.

An identifcation card found on the body showed him to be a student living at 439 N. Westfield St.

Questioning of witnesses was continuing today.

Man Given Probation At Waupaca

WAUPACA — Wayne Schoenick, 20, route 2, Weyauwega, was sentenced Friday, in county court branch 1, to three years in the Green Bay Reformatory on the charges of taking indecent liberties with a child and attempting to have sexual intercourse with a child.

Judge Wendell McHenry stayed the sentence and placed Schoenick on three years probation to the Wisconsin Department of Social Services. The condition of that probation is that he spend six months in the county jail, pay all costs of the action, and receive psychiatric help at the Waupaca-Shawano Mental Health Clinic.

Schoenick was arrested on July 14 in the City of Weyauwega on the morals offense which involved a 14-year-old Weyauwega girl.

He pleaded guilty to the charge on Aug. 30 and a presentence investigation was ordered.

Tests Show Man Died Of Injuries to Head

SHIOCTON — A postmortem examination has proven that a 55-year-old migrant worker, found dead in his house early Thursday morning, died of severe head injuries, according to Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps.

Jesus Martinez, route 1, was found dead by another man who lived with him. Martinez was reportedly last seen alive about 6 p.m. Wednesday at his home, according to Kemps.

Authorities report he had complained of being ill Wednesday and failed to go to work. He was working as a cabbage cutter near Shiocton.

Martinez's room-mate had told Outagamie County sheriff's investigators the man was unruly Wednesday night. He told authorities that he wanted to put Martinez to bed because he was ill. He stated that Martinez threatened to kill him and took a swing at him before lying down.

Kemps reported that Martinez had been dead since near midnight. He ordered the postmortem, which was conducted by Dr. James W. Erchul at an Appleton hospital

Kemps reported that his office would now work with the sheriff's department and Outagamie County Dist. Atty. James R. Long in conducting further investigation.

A microscopic report of the autopsy and laboratory analysis are not expected until the end of next week. Kemps added that no decision had been made as to whether a coroner's inquest would be held.

Old Friendships were renewed this week when two young women who attended Appleton schools as foreign exchange students returned for a visit. Wendy Souter, center, South Africa, and Sylvia Gazzaneo, Uruguay, share a cup of punch with Mrs. Lee Logan, hostess for a party in honor of the visiting and new AFS students. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Homosexuality, Drug Problem

Report on Kettle Moraine Boys School Being Probed

PLYMOUTH, Wis. (AP) — The governor's office says it is investigating a newspaper report which quoted inmates of the Kettle Moraine Boys School as claiming homosexual behavior and drug use are nothing unusual in the minimum security institution.

The Janesville Gazette published a series of articles after a 16-year-old youth came to the newspaper office as a runaway.

The Gazette said the boy, home on furlough from the school, became physically ill when his mother and two adult friends tried to return him to the school.

"He begged and pleaded with us not to force him to go back to that place," John Kirschner of Janesville wrote in a letter to Gov. Patrick J. Lucey. "He told us he would willingly serve the rest of his time at Green Bay, Rock County Jail or anywhere," Kurschner stated, referring to the Green Bay Reformatory.

The superintendent of Kettle Moraine, Paul Prast, discounted most of the claims. But he has ordered some policy changes after questioning about 40 of the 200 youths at the school as well as some supervisors.

Investigations

Spokesmen for the governor said Friday that Lucey has asked Cheryl Rosen, head of a task force studying the state's penal institutions, to contact Kurschner and investigate conditions at the school.

Kurschner and Robert Pasch have been asked to meet with a task force subcommittee within a week. The men operate the Deadwood Trading Post in Janesville and are friends of the Janesville youth.

Kurschner's letter to the governor outlined the boy's complaints about the school.

The youth was finally picked up by Prast Aug. 26 and taken back to the school where he was held in maximum security. Friday he had been transferred to Mendota State Hospital for psychological examinations.

Kurschner said the boy told him "he just couldn't take the homosexuality, drugs or psychological and physical abuse that he says are a day-by-day way of life at Kettle Moraine."

The boy was sent to the institution last March.

Smuggled

He and other inmates interviewed inside the school told a newsman marijuana, LSD and "downers" are smuggled into the school and are readily available to those who want them.

They also said inmates on a conservation project have harvested wild marijuana plants and smuggled them into the school.

"Marijuana grows right out here in the woods," one boy said. "It's not the best grass, but it works."

Another said prescription pills are stolen from the school's infirmary, then used or sold by inmates.

Since a newsman visited the school last week, Prast said he has issued an order that cabinets containing drugs be locked at all times. Locks on the cabinets have been changed, and Prast has interviewed 40 boys about the use of drugs in the school.

He said he feels drug use is minimal.

"Maybe a joint (marijuana cigarette) comes in once in a while," he said, but that's about the extent of the problem.

He said the drugs kept in the infirmary are "downers" containing libruium and cocaine. The boys apparently get them as they are prescribed.

Pill Problem

"What they apparently do is put the pills in their mouths but do not swallow them," Prast said. "Then when they leave the infirmary they take the pills out and save them for later use."

Prast also discounted claims of homosexuality. He said overt problem is "mostly", and overt acts just don't occur.

But the 16-year-old said he was bothered every day.

Another youth told Prast and a reporter: "I've been seriously propositioned once—he was bigger than me. But I told him to lay off, and since then nobody bothers me."

Prast asked the boy if he was afraid of being beaten up or of homosexual activities, and the boy replied: "I'm afraid of both."

The Janesville boy said he told his counselors and supervisors about the problem and they advised him not to pay attention to it.

"But you have to pay attention to it," he said. "You can't help it when every time you sit down to a meal somebody grabs you."

The inmates blame some of the problems on a group of youths returned from the Green Bay Reformatory after a Supreme Court ruling which said, in effect, boys not convicted of serious crimes cannot be held at the reformatory.

The 25 youths developed tough attitudes at Green Bay and now run Kettle Moraine, including some of the counselors, the Janesville boy said.

Prast blamed the Supreme Court rulings for increasing the runaway problem at Kettle Moraine.

He said boys are no longer threatened with being sent to Green Bay if they "go AWOL" from the boys school.

Kaukauna Fourth Ward Alderman Swiontek Resigns

KAUKAUNA — Fourth Ward Ald. Michael Swinontek, whose term of office expires in April 1973, has announced, he will resign the position.

He will inform the Common council at its Tuesday meeting.

Swiontek recently took a position with a Fond du Lac firm and intends to move from the city. He is in the process of purchasing a home in Fond du Lac, but has indicated he will not move until about the middle of this month.

Swiontek upset Russel Dix, a 10-year council veteran, in last April's election. Mayor Gilbert Anderson said it will be up to the council to appoint a successor to Swiontek.

Police Unit Disfavors Rennovating School

Converting the Appleton Vocational School into a police station "would not be a sound financial investment for the City of Appleton, and therefore not in the best interests of the taxpayers," the Citizens Police Reserve has declared

The advisory board of the volunteer law enforcement support group adopted a resolution stating the belief Wednesday. The resolution was received today by City Clerk Elden Broehm.

The resolution is addressed to the Board of Public Works, which is expected Sept. 14 to take up an architect's report on the feasibility of converting the vocational school to a police headquarters.

The police reserve noted that the report, prepared by Sauter, Seaborne, Paynter & Duszak Architects, Ltd., lists a $469,000 minimal renovation cost, an additional $100,000 to bring the building to modern standards and a $30,000 cost if an elevator is installed.

By comparison, the cost of a new facility is estimated at $750,000.

The architects also pointed out that movement of a steep embankment on the school site has resulted in cracking of masonry in the building and may need shoring up. The future effectiveness of the heating plant also has been questioned.

The police reserve said that its purpose is reducing the crime rate in Appleton, and "the quality of police protection must be very high to achieve that end."

Man Found With Truck Being Held

A 22-year-old Kaukauna man, accused of taking a truck without the owners consent, will have a court appointed attorney when he appears before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer Sept. 7.

Richard Geborak, 419 W. Park St., was apprehended by Calumet and state officers Thursday after he allegedly took the vehicle from Keller Structures Inc., route 3, Kaukauna, the truck struck several posts near Hilbert and ran out of gas on Kees Road west of Hilbert. Geborak was apprehended a few hundred yards from the truck by officers who were pursueing it.

He was found indigent by the court Friday afternoon and appointed public counsel. Geborek is being held in Outagamie County jail in under $1,500 bond.

Rural Politicians Dissect Districting

BY BOB LAUX
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

BLACK CREEK — The basement of the village bank was filled with Fourth of July speechmaking and forecasts of doom Friday night as rural politicians had their say about reapportioning the county board.

It was the second in a series of public meetings on the "magic number" of supervisors who will make up a new board. In Black Creek, any number under 43 was anathema.

Supv. Charles Wussow, Appleton, chairman of the special reapportionment committee, explained the mechanics of bringing the districts into line with the "one man, one vote rule."

He produced two maps he drew with revised boundaries, and said the one with 23 districts worked out better than 29 in preserving municipal boundaries. The maps were only examples.

County Officers

Since the supervisors are classified as county officers, Wussow said, they are not to be confused with municipal representatives. Population is the chief criterion for redistricting, although new districts should be compact and contiguous and respect government boundaries.

Changing the districts to conform with the 1970 census can start as soon as Outagamie's population is officially certified by the secretary of state. If the figures arrive before Jan. 1, supervisors could run in the revised districts in the spring election.

So much for mechanics. Emmett Root, Hortonville, a former board member, said, "Now let us be just a little careful when we reapportion. When we in Outagamie County or in any other county lower the number of supervisors, we're going to lose the home rule back home."

Root warned that the board would turn into a commission government if it were reduced below 43, the magic number considered when the county last redistricted in 1966. The rural areas would lose power, he said. "Common sense tells you its going to be a city operated county."

Edward Peotter, Seymour, another board veteran, quoted a book of prophecies written 10 years ago which predicted that town government would be replaced by county government, county by state and states by the federal government — "and some of these things have already come true."

He attacked the idea of increasing the per diem pay of supervisors from the present $22 rate. "I believe if you make the job attractive in wages you won't get a better man. You'll get a poorer man who's not dedicated to Outagamie County."

State Rep. Ervin W. Conradt, Shiocton, agreed that cutting the board down would result in a commission form of government. He spoke about the wisdom of the founding fathers who had written the state and federal constitutions and said, "If these forefathers could come back and see what has taken place in the last 25 years, they would say 'Get thee hence.'

"I dont' think we have combined in this room tonight the intelligence of one of our forefathers."

When Conradt started talking about the shared tax distribution fight in the state legislature and all the money Outagamie County would lose to Milwaukee, Wussow asked him to confine his remarks to reapportionment.

"The Whole Load"

Conradt, rebutted, "I'm going to give you the whole load tonight. Oh, I might save some for county board day." He was backed up by a chorus from the floor: "Let him talk," and "This is educational."

Conradt finished his speech about taxes and annexation to a round of applause. He had said he would never vote for a county board reduced by more than four members.

Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, advocated a vote on the magic number at the September meeting. It was easy, he said, to generate negative feelings against a redistricted map. A better solution would be for the special committee to propose the number of supervisors and then redraw the lines. The reason the districts are so imbalanced now, he said, was that the 1966 realignment was based on 1960 census figures

Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, chairman of the 1966 reapportionment group, said, "You do not create more efficiency in government by lowering the number. My idea of government is this: That government is a slow process — it's not like business. When you finally do make a decision you come out with a better decision than if it was made by just a few."

"Benevolent Dictator"

"When you talk about efficient government, the most efficient government there is is a benevolent dictatorship — if you can find a benevolent dictator," Babbitt said.

Voter apathy was the main concern of Supv. Joseph Kasparek, Black Creek. A fewer number of supervisors would make the lack of government contact even worse, he said.

Supv. Fred Rehfeldt, Appleton, announced that he had a change of heart since his proposal earlier this year that the board be cut to 25 members. Now he favors at least 41 members, he said.

Wussow said after the meeting that he would present alternative maps to the board to consider when redistricting.

The final public meeting will be at the courthouse in Appleton at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Wussow read a letter from the "Outagamie Citizens Group for Redistricting" which advocated a drastic cut in the board and said, "This is so you know what you're up against."

The group is headed by former Appleton Ald Mrs. Dorothy Stillings and is composed of the League of Women Voters, the Appleton Area and Heart of the Valley chambers of commerce, the Appleton Jaycettes and the Outagamie Democratic party.

County Sanitarian Gets New Support

Stopped in past years by the strong opposition of rural Outagamie County supervisors, the County Board health committee again is attempting to secure a county sanitarian — this time through a full, federally funded program.

Dr. Kenneth Gibson, committee chairman, said the committee is asking County Executive Alvin Woehler and the Emergency Employment Act of 1971 council members to consider including the county sanitarian job in its request for funds.

The county has been allotted over $450,000 for salaries and other costs for the program designed to provide jobs for the unemployed.

The health committee revived its request because of the possible funding, Gibson said. "This job area has had the greatest amount of study and the greatest amount of need in the county," he added.

He said that he hoped Woehler and the council would be able to include the job in the funding. He said the job could be created and operated for a year on federal funds, without county board approval, and he predicted that rural supervisors then would be convinced of the value of a sanitarian.

Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan chairman and leader of the successful opposition to hiring one in past years, disagreed.

"I see no need for one," he said, predicting that continued rural supervisory opposition.

DeBruin said that Frank Charlesworth, coordinator of public services, could handle many of the sanitarian tasks. Gibson contended that Charlesworth didn't have the time for such work.

The sanitarian proponent said he envisioned the sanitarian as one who would prevent unhealthy conditions in the county through programs, such as rat control, and checking of well water and sewage tanks.

In its letter to the council members, the committee said the sanitarian would administer and enforce the sanitation code, report health nuisances and improve enviornmental sanitation.

Gibson said he felt a qualified person could be hired for the recommended salary of about $7,500. He said the EEA program allows salaries up to about $12,000.

Gibson said Fond du Lac County hired a sanitarian a year ago and is looking for a second, and Calumet County also is looking for one.

S. Oneida Street Opens in 2 Weeks

Appleton's Oneida Street drawbridge across the industrial Flats should be reopened to traffic in about two weeks, according to City Engineer Thomas Harp.

Two crews are working on the bridge. One is repairing a concrete abutment and remedying movement of earth and pavement on the sloping street adjoining the bridge. The other is painting the steel portion of the structure.

Harp said the repairs should be finished in about two weeks and the painting near enough to completion to permit traffic to use the span at that time.

Harp's weekly public works construction report also listed the following projects:

— Storm sewer installation. The contractor during the coming week should finish installation of storm sewer in the Park Hills Subdivision, and begin work on Arlington Street and Lucille Street.

— Watermain installation. The contractor will be working on State Street between College Avenue and Summer Street.

— Concrete paving. Construction will be taking place on the following streets:

Jackman Street — The contractor has poured the second half of the pavement. However, traffic will not be allowed in the area until the concrete has cured.

Locust Street — One-half of the pavement has been placed. The contractor will be setting forms and possibly pouring part of the second half during the coming week.

Elm Street — The contractor will set forms in preparation for pouring and probably pour one-half of the pavement.

John Street — The contractor will have poured the second half of John Stre et.Traffiillctonw of John Street. Traffic will not be allowed on that part of the pavement until curing has taken place.

— Grading and graveling. Mason Street from County Trunk 00 to Lindbergh Street has been completed and will be open to traffic.

GI Bill Requirement in VTE Schools Under Fire

WISCONSIN RAPIDS (AP) — A requirement that veterans in vocational-technical school associate degree programs spend 25 hours a week in school to get full GI Bill benefits is under fire as discriminatory.

Mel Schneeberg assistant administrator of education services for Vocational Technical and Adult Education District 14, said the requirement for vets attending universities or liberal arts colleges is only 12 semester credit hours, it could mean the student would attend fewer class hours than a vocational-technical student, he said.

The requiremen treats vocational-technical students as "high school students," Schneeberg charged, and should be taken "all the way to the Supreme Court."

A belief by the Veterans Administration that a college student will spend the required out-of-school time in study, while a vocational student will not, is erroneous, he said.

David Stern, assistant director of the VA's Milwaukee regional office, said the 25-hour requirement has only become an issue recently because "in previous years, the schools were certifying to us that the individual veteran was receiving 25 hours of classwork or supervised study and that was what we based full time payments on."

Menasha Banker Completes Course

MENASHA — Thomas E. Niesen of the Bank of Menasha recently completed the annual two-week residence session of the 27th Annual Graduate School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

The school, sponsored by the Central State Conference consisting of the banker's associations of 16 midwestern states, requires attendance for two weeks each year for three years for graduation.

Blue Looms on Horizon

Weak Hitting Brewers No Match for Angels' Wright

By MIKE O'BRIEN
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Clyde Wright assessed the Milwaukee Brewers' predicament in a nutshell.

"They're a smart ball club, bbut small. They have good young pitching but they can't afford to make mistakes because they don't have many big guys who can hit it out of the park," Wright said Friday night after surviving a shaky first inning and pitching the California Angels to a 6-2 victory over the Brewers.

Jim Slaton, one of the Brewers' better young pitchers, had some of his best stuff of the season, in the opinion of Manager Dave Bristol.

But Slaton was guilty of a balk and a throwing error, and the Angels parlayed both mistakes into a pair of two-run innings.

The uprisings wiped out a 2-0 Milwaukee lead, and once Wright solved the Brewers' Punch and Judy hitting patterns, the three-year old expansion club had no chance.

Wright, a 22-game winner last year, allowed only three base runners after the first inning and coasted to his 13th victory against 14 defeats. Slaton dropped to 9-6.

Milwaukee made its only move in the first inning when Ron Theobald and Jose Cardenal singled to the opposite field. Johnny Briggs' sacrifice fly scored Theobald and sent Cardenal to second. Cardenal scored when Roberto Pena singled to right and catcher John Stephenson dropped the throw to the plate for an error.

The Angels tied the score in the fourth when Tony Gonzalez singled in Mickey Rivers and Ken McMullen, both of whom had singles and advanced to second and third when Slaton balked on a pickoff attempt at second.

Stephenson singled to open the California fifth and Slaton threw wildly to first on Wright's sacrifice, sending runners to second and third. Rivers' infield hit scored Stephenson with what proved to be the winning run, and Wright scored on Jim Fregosi's sacrifice fly.

Three singles and an error by rightfielder Dave May accounted for the Angels' final runs in the ninth.

Slaton took full blame for his balk and error.

"It definitely was a balk," said the 21-year-old righthander, "I saw Bob Heise break in behind Rivers at second, but I flinched and stepped off the rubber.

"On the bunt, Theobald was going over to cover first and Briggs came up the line from first and stopped," Slaton said. "I picked up the ball and saw both of them standing there."

"I hesitated and didn't know which one to throw to, but I had my arm cocked and released the ball," he said.

Hit Good

"The Brewers, especially the right-handers, usually hit pretty good by going to the opposite field," Wright said. "They hit me that way in the first inning, and I could see a pattern. So I changed by giving them screwballs outside—sometimes outside the strike zone to set them up—and then jamming them inside wih the fast ball.

"The Brewers are smart enough to know they don't have many big power hitters, so they have to go to the opposite field a lot," he said. "So it was up to me to try to keep them off balance by not letting them hit to right, like they wanted."

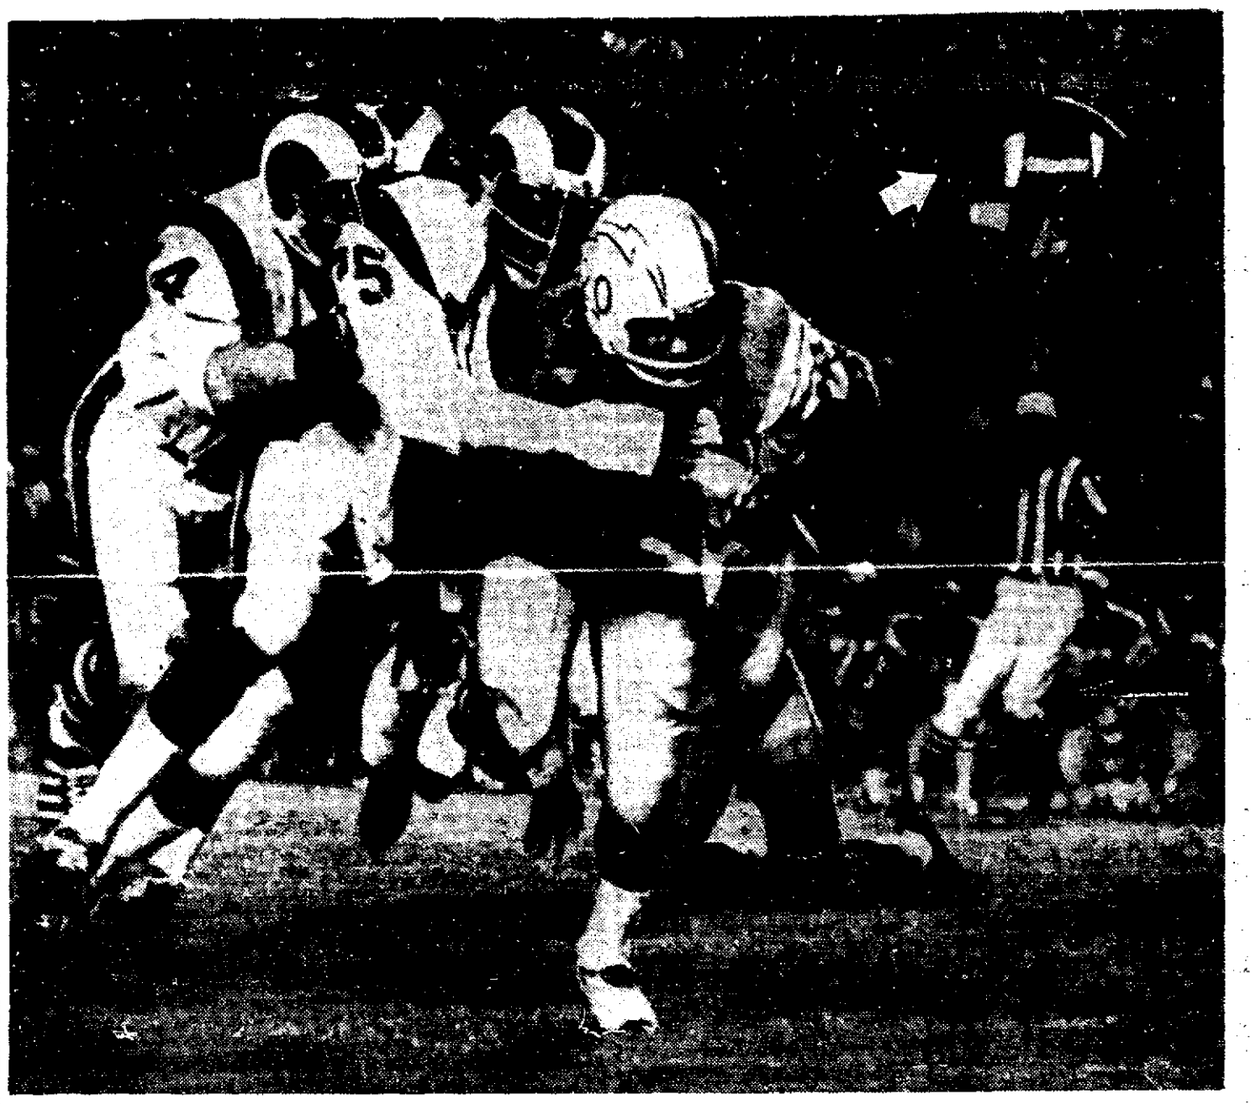

Drew 6,175

The game drew only 6,175 for a season attendance total of 762,390 for 66 dates, about 200,000 off last year's pace.

Hopes of at least one substantial crowd in the nine home dates left brightened when Frank Lane, the Brewers' baseball operations director, announced the Oakland Athletics have told him the sensational Vida Blue will pitch here Friday night, Sept. 17.

Blue, best drawing card in the American League this year has beaten the Brewers twice this season in as many starts—2-0 here April 13 and 3-0 at Oakland May 19.

Bill Parsons (11-15) was to pitch tonight against California's Rudy May (9-9).

The Rams' David 'Deacon' Jones has little Mike Garrett in his grip and the ball is flying loose (arrow) on an interrupted left-end sweep by the Chargers at Los Angeles Friday night. Tackle Merlin Olsen backs up Jones at left. San Diego recovered the fumble and went on to win the exhibition contest, 20-14.

'Bengals Have Hands Full'

Injury-Riddled Cincinnati Seeks 5th Win Against Pack

CINCINNATI (AP) — The injury-hobbled Cincinnati Bengals will be looking for their fifth straight win in pre-season play tonight against the Green Bay Packers, 1-3.

Cincinnati recorded exhibition victories over the Miami Dolphins, Detroit Lions, St. Louis Cardinals and squeeked past the Pittsburgh Steelers 22-21 last week on the toe of placekicker Horst Muhlmann who split the uprights five times in the game.

Coach Dan Devine's Packers have given up only 2 points to the opposition in four contests beating Miami 10-7, and losing to Chicago, 2-0; Pittsburgh, 16-13 and Oakland 17-13.

Hands Full

"It's noteworthy that all their games have been close and they have played some very fine football teams," said Bengals Coach and General Manager Paul Brown. "We'll have our hands full."

Brown indicated he will use rookies to replace his regulars in the first-ever appearance by the Packers at Cincinnati.

Defensive linemen Arthur May and Gene Trosch will alternate to replace injured Mike Reid. The injured list includes receivers Chip Myers and Bruce Coslet, running back Paul Robinson, offensive guards Guay Dennis and Steve Lawson, tackle Willie Lee Jones and special team captain Ron Lamb.

12 of 17

Rookie Ken Anderson, who could not put across a touchdown against the Steelers, hit 12 of 17 passes for 80 yards. Regular quarterback Virgil Carter completed 8 of 17 for the same yardage.

Veteran Zeke Bratkowski was expected to start for the Packers while veteran quarterback Bart Starr is recovering from shoulder surgery.

Rookie Scott Hunter has passed for 396 yards and two touchdowns for the Packers in pre-season contests completing 24 of 48 passes.

Green Bay's rushing attack is led by former Ohio State All America John Brockington, Cincinnatian Perry Williams who played at Purdue and veteran Donny Anderson.

KC Tops Chisox Twice

McNally Wins 17th; Twins Beat Blue, 2-1

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Who's the hottest pitcher in the major leagues? Vida Blue? Wrong.

Mickey Lolich? Wrong again.

Ferguson Jenkins. Still wrong.

Would you believe Dave McNally? That's right, Dave McNally.

The Baltimore left-hander, the winningest pitcher in the American League over the past four seasons, gained his 11th consecutive victory Friday night as the Orioles rallied for a 4-2 triumph over the Washington Senators.

While McNally was increasing his record to 17-4, Blue, the winningest pitcher in the major leagues this season with 23 victories, suffered his seventh loss as Minnesota edged the Oakland left-hander 2-1 in the second game of a twi-night doubleheader. The Twins also won the opener 9-4.

Tigers Beat Yanks

Elsewhere in the AL, Kansas City also swept a twi-night twinbill, beating Chicago 3-1 and 8-6; Boston trounced Cleveland 9-2; Detroit defeated New York 3-1, and California downed Milwaukee 6-2.

McNally, who missed a month of the season because of an injury to his left elbow, was not around at the finish in his latest effort against the Senators. He left for a pinch hitter in the eighth inning when the Orioles scored all their runs.

The pinch hitter, Tom Shopay, started the winning rally with a bunt single against rookie Pete Broberg, the former Dartmouther star who had blanked the slugging Orioles on four hits through the first seven innings.

Howard Homer

Frank Howard's 23rd homer with one on in the first accounted for Washington's scoring.

Meanwhile, the Minnesota Twins, who conducted a special Blue night in honor of the Oakland pitcher in an attempt to increase business at the gate, then went out and gave Blue the business.

They beat him with two home runs—rookie Steve Brye's first major league blast in the second inning and George Mitterwald's tie-breaking shot with two out in the ninth.

In the opener, Harmon Killebrew, making a rare pinch-hitting appearance for the Twins, smashed a grand slam homer in the sixth inning, breaking a 4-4 deadlock. Killebrew's blast was his 19th of the season and the 509th of his career.

Detroit's Norm Cash took over the American League home run lead, belting his 28th, a two-run shot, and Mike Kilkenny hurled a six-hitter for his second complete game of the season as the Tigers defeated the Yankees.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Chicago Cubs' second baseman Glenn Beckert was taken to Jewish Hospital for X rays after suffering a ruptured extensor tendon in his right thumb in a game against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Cards Dump Slumping Cubs, Move Up

Wrigley Supports Manager Durocher

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Owner Phil Wrigley says the "Dump Durocher clique might as well give up" but the Dump the Cubs clique continues to flourish.

Joe Torre, Matty Alou and Ted Simmons each homered and drove in two runs Friday night as the St. Louis Cardinals handed the embattled Cubs their 10th setback in the last 14 games.

Earlier in the day, Wrigley used a large paid advertisement in Chicago newspapers to tell the anti-Durocher faction that "he is running the team, and if some players do not like it and lie down on the job, during the off-season we will see what we can do to find them happier homes."

Durocher's only comment on Wrigley's advertisement was that "the statement speaks for itself."

Combined with Pittsburgh's 6-4 loss to Montreal, the loss left the third-place Cubs nine games behind the Pirates in the National League East. The Cardinals, meanwhile, climbed to within five games of the Bucs.

Elsewhere, the New York Mets whipped Philadelphia 7-1, San Francisco outslugged Houston 16-6, Los Angeles nipped Cincinnati 6-5 with a four-run rally in the ninth inning and San Diego shaded Atlanta 3-2.

Although some Cub players allegedly have been critical of Durocher, the manager pointed out that "I had good relationships with any club I had that was winning."

Cubs Downfall

Simmons started Chicago's downfall with a run-scoring single in the first inning and Alou and Torre hit consecutive homers in the third. Simmons homered in the eighth and Reggie Cleveland checked the Cubs on five hits, including Joe Pepitone's home run.

Singles by Bob Bailey and Gary Sutherland started Montreal's ninth-inning rally against Dave Giusti. The tying run scored on an error by rookie second baseman Rennie Stennett, who had four hits. A walk filled the bases and the winning run scored on a force play. Boots Day singled the final run across.

Cleon Jones doubled home two runs and Duffy Dyer and Tommie Agee homered as the Mets handed the Phillies their sixth consecutive defeat. Ray Sadecki went the route and struck out nine.

Houston tore into Juan Marichal for a 4-0 lead as Bob Watson homered twice. But the Giants battled back on homers by Tito Fuentes and Bobby Bonds and light-hitting Frank Duffy put them ahead to stay in the fifth with a two-run single, his first runs batted in since coming over from Cincinnati in an early-season trade.

Los Angeles remained 8½ games back in the NL West after rallying past the Reds. The Dodgers trailed 5-2—Hal McRae drove in two Cincinnati runs with a single and homer—but a pair of walks and Bobby Valentine's pinch single filled the bases.

Joe Gibbon, the third Cincinnati pitcher, fanned rookie Ron Cey but Maury Wills singled for one run and Manny Mota tripled to right-center to win the game.

Steve Arlin hurled a six-hitter as San Diego defeated Atlanta's Phil Niekro for the fourth straight time. The Padres used unearned runs in the first and seventh innings, helped by two Brave errors and two passed balls by rookie catcher Earl Williams.

49ers Meet Oakland Rivals

80,000 to View Preseason Twinbill

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 10th annual preseason doubleheader extravaganza in Cleveland, plus local rivalries such as Oakland-San Francisco and St. Louis-Kansas City, spice tonight's National Football League exhibition schedule.

The New York Jets, 1-3, will face the Pittsburgh Steelers, 1-2, in the first game of the twinbill at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium, where a crowd of better than 80,000 is expected.

The night-cap pairs the New York Giants against the Cleveland Browns, with both teams winless after four outings.

After going with second-year man Mike Phipps for four games—without success—Cleveland Coach Nick Skorich is turning to gimpy-kneed veteran Bill Nelsen at quarterback. The Giants are expected to be without two of their offensive weapons, running back Ron Johnson and wide receiver Dave Hermann.

Bay area fans are hoping the San Francisco-Oakland game is a preview of the Super Bowl, and it's not beyond the realm of possibility. John Brodie will be at the helm for the 49ers, 3-0-1. He's completed 27 of 38 pass attempts so far, a phenomenal 71 per cent.

The Kansas City Chiefs, 4-0, will battle their cross-state rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals, 1-2, in Saturday's other "natural" rivalry.

In tonight's other games, Buffalo is at Detroit, Washington plays at Miami, Green Bay visits Cincinnati, Chicago plays at Houston, Philadelphia is at New Orleans and Minnesota visits Denver.

Close Schedule

Atlanta will travel to Foxboro, Mass. to meet New England Sunday afternoon, closing out this weekend's schedule.

Friday night, the Dallas Cowboys reversed last year's Super Bowl result, handing the Baltimore Colts a 27-14 thrashing. In Super Bowl V, the Colts won 16-13 on Jim O'Brien's late field goal. Roger Staubach connected with Bob Hayes on touchdown passes of 11 and 46 yards in the second half to pace the Cowboys.

In Friday night's other game, the San Diego Chargers upended the Los Angeles Rams 20-14 as rookie running back Mike Montgomery raced 40 yards on a pass from John Hadl to put the game away in the third period.

Landry Questionable

Both Buffalo and Detroit, who meet tonight, are 2-2 thus far. Lions' quarterback Greg Landry is questionable because of a sore ankle; his replacement is Bill Munson.

Houston's Ed Hughes has given the starting nod to veteran Charley Johnson over rookies Lynn Dickey and Dan Pastorini, as the Oilers 2-3, take on the Bears, 2-2.

Philadelphia, 3-1, will be without quarterback Pete Liske, but New Orleans, 0-4, will be minus signal-caller Archie Manning. Both have leg injuries.

The game between Minnesota, 4-0, and Denver, 0-3, will give wide receiver Al Denson, deal by the Broncos to the Vikings in the off-season, a chance for a measure of revenge.

Prize rookie Jim Plunkett is expected to get his first pro start for New England, 1-3, when the Patriots host Atlanta, 2-1, in Sunday's lone contest.

Raiders Lose Receiver

Wells Goes to Jail

OAKLAND (AP) — Warren Wells, wide receiver of the Oakland Raiders, was sentenced to prison for 90 days Friday by a judge who told the football player "you have run out of chances."

Judge Leonard Dieden of Alameda County Superior Court ordered Wells to serve a 90-day sentence for "diagonostic study" at the state medical facility.

Wells' probation on a 1969 conviction for attempted rape was revoked pending the psychiatric studies.

The hearing on Wells' probation was scheduled as the result of an offseason stabbing incident in Beaumont, Tex.

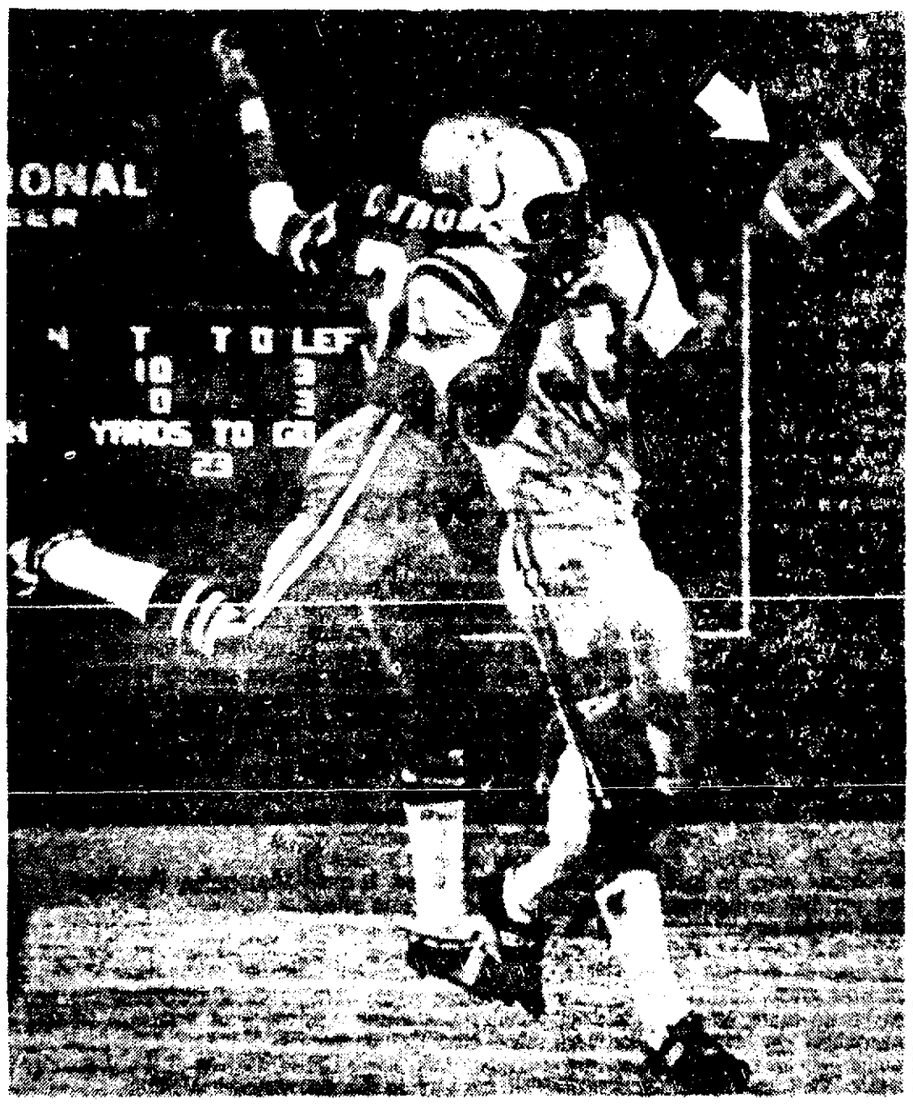

Wells was turned over to the custody of the sheriff after the judge's decision here, following a full day of testimony.

The athlete asked the judge for "a break" in a personal plea before the decision was made. Dieden told him, "You have every chance. You have just run out of chances."

Wells, who caught 43 passes for 935 yards last year to rank among the top receivers in the National Football League, played in the Raiders' first four exhibition games this year. Oakland opens the regular NFL season Sept. 19 in New England, and veteran Rod Sherman is Wells' likely replacement.

Afraid of Him

One of the witnesses Friday was a smartly dressed young woman who testified she pulled an open switchblade knife from her purse and stabbed Wells this spring because she was afraid of him.

Dallas Cornerback Isaac Thomas raps Baltimore Colt wide receiver Eddie Hinton and causes Hinton to drop the ball (arrow) during the second quarter of the Cowboys-Colts meeting in Baltimore Friday night. The Cowboys scored a 27-14 victory. (AP Wirephoto)

Avenge Super Bowl, 27-14

Cowboys Top Colts Behind Staubach

BALTIMORE (AP) — Roger Staubach tossed two touchdown passes to Bob Hayes in the second half as the Dallas Cowboys whipped the Baltimore Colts 27-4 in a National Football League exhibition contest Friday night, reversing the result of last January's Super Bowl game.

Staubach, battling Craig Morton for the starting Dallas quarterback job, connected with Hayes from 11 yards out to cap a 68-yard drive in the third quarter and then threw a 48-yard bomb to the speedy wide receiver early in the fourth period.

The Colts, who won the Super Bowl 16-13 on Jim O'Brien's field goal, muffed four field goal attempts—two off-target tries by O'Brien and two by David Lee which were blocked.

Block FG Try

A blocked field goal attempt by the Cowboys' Mike Clark, who was successful from 12 yards out to open the scoring, set up a Baltimore touchdown just before halftime in the nationally televised contest.

Earl Morrall, who had completed just three of 15 passes until that point, then hit on three in a row—a nine-yarder to Tom Mitchell going for the TD with 27 seconds left in the quarter.

Morton completed five passes for 77 yards during a second quarter drive which put Dallas ahead 10.0. Two were caught by Hayes and two by Calvin Hill, who was knocked unconscious on the first play of the second half and watched the remainder of the game from the bench.

Hill Scores

Hill scored the touchdown on a seven-yard end run, and wound up with 18 yards gained on 10 carries. Staubach completed 11 of 16 passes for 193 yards and Morton was 11 for 19 and 146 yards.

Toni Fritsch booted a 15-yard field goal in the fourth quarter to put Dallas ahead 27-7. Baltimore rookie quarterback Carl Douglas then directed a 63-yard scoring drive with Jack Maitland going over from the one with 54 seconds left.

Dallas brought its preseason record to 5-0, while Baltimore is 3-3.

A slim paid crowd of 16,217 watched the game, which at times in the first half resembled the loosely played Super Bowl between the same teams.

With Roger Staubach taking over as the Dallas quarterback, the Cowboys moved 68 yards with the second half kickoff to go ahead 17-7.

Hill was knocked unconscious on the first play before Staubach hit Richardson for gains of 19, 12 and 24 yards, Staubach completed an 11-yard TD pass to Hayes and Toni Fritsch booted the point.

Baltimore drove to the Dallas nine before an offensive interference penalty and a 13-yard loss by Morrall as he attempted to pass pushed the Colts back to the Dallas 37 as the quarter ended.

Drath Rallies Manawa Past Weyauwega

Wolves Record 2 4th Quarter TDs In 20-14 Win

WEYAUWEGA — Two scoring passes by quarterback Tim Drath in the fourth quarter enabled Manawa to take a game away from Weyauwega in non-conference action here last night.

Drath also was in on the first Manawa touchdown as he ran five yards for the scores. The PAT attempt failed. On Drath's winning passes, he passed to Ken Mentzel for 14 yards and to Jerry Loner for 7. On the Mentzel touchdown, Myron Retzke ran for a 2-point conversion.

For Weyauwega, Tom Schmoltz set up a touchdown by running 51 yards to the Manawa 2 yard line. Carry Schmies capped the drive with a touchdown. The other touchdown was by Schmoldt, on a 3-yard run. The PAT was kicked both times by Mike Schaffer.

Bulldogs Trip Shawano, 14-6

Slosarek Keys New London Victory

SHAWANO — Robbie Slosarek keyed New London's running game Friday night as the Bulldogs recorded a 14-6 win over Shawano in a non-conference opener for both schools.

Slosarek, a minus-10-second sprinter in the 100, showed good form as he twisted and turned his way into the end zone early in the third period. He also slashed in for the 2-point conversion.

The New London speedster scored the first touchdown of the game with 4:15 left in the first half with a 67-yard return of a Shawano punt.

Key Pass

The Bulldogs junior quarterback, Rick Kaepernick, connected with Mark Egland, a junior end, with a 15-yard pass to give the Bulldogs a crucial first down.

Slosarek then toted the pigskin on a fourth and 13 situation 17 yards to the six for another first down. The NL senior carried two more times to paydirt.

For the evening, Slosarek picked up 45 yards in 14 carries, while Dean Martin, Shawano's quarterback, gained 71 in 16 attempts.

Sole Score

Mike Samels tallied the Indians sole score of the evening on the series immediately following Slosarek's 67-yard jaunt.

Shawano took possession on its own 46. Martin scrambled 7 yards into New London territory and a 5-yard penalty on the next play yielded a first down. Samels broke up the middle on the next play for a 42-yard TD. The PAT run was stopped and the teams marched to the dressing room with a 6-6 tie at the intermission.

Leads Change

Time worked against the Indians late in the game as they mounted their only offense of the second half. Martin was the entire show for Shawano as he led the charge from the Indian 15 to the Bulldog 27 before the march fizzled Lenny Markman batted down Martin's fourth down pass with 35-seconds left to thwart the Indians scoring bid.

Shawano had been kept deep in its own territory in the second half mainly on the strength of interceptions by Dan Barrington and Rick Kamke.

New London punted out of bounds at the Shawano 15 with over 4-minutes remaining in the game. Martin picked up 11 yards on a pair of carries for a first down. A 15-yard face mask penalty kept the drive alive on third down and Martin rambled 17 yards on the ensuing play for a first down at the 38. Four plays later the senior quarterback rambled 13 yards for another first down and then six on another carry for still another first down. That was it for the Indians as the New London defense stiffened.

WDP Trips Clints In Bay Opener, 6-0

WEST DE PERE — Gene Pichett scampered for 11 yards around right end in the second quarter to lead West DePere to a 6-0 win over Clintonville in a Bay Conference opener here Friday night.

The drive leading to the 6-pointer had its biggest boost when the Black Panthers' signal caller, Joe Kazik, threaded the needle with 28-yard strike to Jim Rottier. Kazik made good on nine passes in 17 tries for the evening.

The Clints forced the enemy to punt seven times and kicked only once as they had the ball for 53 plays compared to 39 for West DePere.

3 Opportunities

The losers saw three scoring opportunities go by the boards. They received the second half kickoff and drove down to the five yard line with Dean Arndt serving as the rushing workhorse. After earning a first down at the five, four inside running plays, the last being a sneak by Rusty Ehlert, went for naught.

In the fourth period, the Truckers had one last chance to overtake the Black Panthers. Due to a poor punt, they got good field position on the WDP's 30. A few plays later, however, quarterback Ehlert lofted a pass that was tipped and finally pilfered by Kazik. Kazik was a thorn in the side all night as he skyjacked three errant aerials.

The Black Panthers' defensive line put on a fine rush, dumping the losers' quarterback twice for over 40 yards.

Ali Injured When Riding Motorcycle

CHERRY HILL, N. J. (AP) — Muhammad Ali, who has made his career as an expert with two fists, has been felled by two wheels.

The former world champion heavyweight boxer back at his New Jersey home after a speaking tour in the Caribbean, suffered slight abrasions and cuts when he took a spin around the place on a motorcycle.

His trainer, Angelo Dundee, was wry in announcing the accident Friday in Miami Beach.

"He was bragging to me about that motorcycle of his," Dundee said. "I don't think I'm going to get some motorcycle lessons from him."

Gets Stitches

Dundee said Ali received two stitches in his thumb at Cherry Hill Hospital. He was released late Thursday.

Dundee said the accident caused cancellation of plans for Ali to fly from Philadelphia to Miami Friday and then to Jamaica on business. He said Ali would remain in Cherry Hill.

"I don't think he's riding home from the hospital on the back of his motorcycle," Dundee added.

Hostettler Leads League

Paces Golden Shoe Horseshoe Circuit At Combined Locks

COMBINED LOCKS — Jerry Hostettler turned in a high game of 76, and the top series of 172 to pace men shooters in the Golden Shoe Couples horseshoe league here.

In the ladies segment, Judy Verhoven grabbed top honors with a 58 singleton and a 153 series. Roy and Mary Siegel will meet Ivol and Myrt Van Handel for the title next week.

In the Derby Couples League, Harold Lamers hurled a 78 game and a 207 series, while Ruth Sanders paced the women with a 77 single game effort and a 216 series. Al and Mrs. Sanders will meet Urb and Irene Wildenberg for the crown.

Joe Gerrits fired a 104 singleton en-route to a 242 series to take laurels in the Ring-Dingers League. Geri Van Deurzen grabbed ladies' honors with a 205 series Mark Van Boogaard carded a 74 to capture the runnerup position. Joe and Joyce Gerritts will go against Joe and Mary Van Boogaard for the title.

Gerritts also led the Close Shoe Men's League with a 93 game and a 240 series. In the finale, Joe Lenz and Jim Bobber will match their talents against Joe Van Boogaard and Gerritts.

Norb Gossesn clanged 88 ringers in 150 attempts for a 58.7 per cent accuracy rating to pace the Major League segment Gossens, who finishes the season with a 40-5 record, has won the championship

Kodes Wins Another Test In U.S. Open

Czech Hero Tips Frenchman, Ashe Also Advances

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Jan Kodes has become as much of a Czechoslovakian hero as Jaroslev Drobny.

The natives wept when Drobny won Wimbledon in 1954 even though he had forsaken his country after World War II. But Kodes has drawn a big Czech contingent to Forest Hills and has been the subject of hundreds of fan letters since he toppled top-ranked John Newcombe in the first round of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Kodes, the 25-year-old Davis Cup player and master of clay, continued his assault on the unfamiliar center court grass at the West Side Tennis Club Friday when he rallied to defeat Pierre Barthes of France 2-6, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Teenager Loses

The youngest competitor in the Open, 15-year-old Marita Redondo, failed to survive her second round match. Gial Chanfreau of France defeated the National City, Calif., teenager 6-3, 6-3.

But all seeded players in action Friday advanced to the third round

Arthur Ashe, winner here in 1968 and seeded No. 3 this year, took a 6-2, 6-1, 6-1 victory over University of Utah student Steve Krulevitz of Baltimore.

Cliff Richey, sixth-ranked player from San Angelo, Tex., ousted Jadik Mukerjea of India 7-5, 6-2, 6-3 and Ilie Nastase, No. 8 from Romania, crushed Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Calif., 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Two of the four seeded women also advanced on straight-set victories. Australian Kerry Melville, No. 4 scored a 6-0, 6-3 triumph over Pam Teegarden of Los Angeles and Judy Dalton, also of Australia.

Wrightstown Dumped

Trinrud, Solberg Key Comets Opening Win

WAUPACA — Waupaca's Keith Trinrud and Lee Solberg were too much for Wrightstown to handle as the Comets scored a 28-0 football victory Friday night.

Trinrud scored three touchdowns, while Solberg accounted for one score and made several brilliant returns of punts and kickoffs.

Solberg set up the first Comet scored when he took the game's opening kickoff and raced 66 yards to the Wrightstown 19 yard line. Three plays later, Trinrud went over from the nine. Roger Larsen ran for the points after.

Second Counts

Trinrud galloped 17 yards for the second six-pointer after Waupaca recovered a Wrightstown fumble at the 20. Mark Peskie ran for the conversion.

In the second quarter, Trinrud capped a long Waupaca march with a three-yard dive for the score. The point-after try failed.

Solberg, who gained 180 yards in four returns, scampered 66 yards with a punt return for the final Waupaca score in the third canto. The kick for the extra point was blocked.

Wrightstown, which totaled only 47 yards — all on the ground, never pressed further than the Waupaca 30 during the game. The Comets picked up 162 yards, 99 on the ground and 63 through the air. Waupaca had a slight edge in first downs, 8-6.

Brillion and Shiocton Battle to 6-6 Deadlock

SHIOCTON — Brillion and Shiocton played to a 6-6 deadlock in exciting non-conference action here last night.

Brillion's only touchdown came in the second quarter on a 1-yard quarterback sneak by Tom Schwann. Shiocton's points came when Mike Bricco passed 24 yards to Mark Johnson early in the fourth quarter. The PAT attempts of both teams failed.

Fumbles played a big part in the game as Brillion lost 4 to Shiocton, and the Chiefs only gave up one in return. Shiocton's Jeff Johnson also intercepted a pass off the hands of the Lion's quarterback.

Brillion dominated the game as they amassed a total of 287 yards to Shiocton's 93. The Lions also stacked up 13 first downs to 3 for Shiocton. Brillion held a 163-74 rushing edge. Brillion opens conference action against Hilbert next week, and Shiocton's opener is against Sevastopol.

Stellmacher Keys Ripon Rout Over North Fond du Lac

RIPON — Steve Stellmacher fired up the Ripon Tigers with a 37-yard touchdown jaunt in the first period and the East Central Conference team steamrolled North Fond du Lac, 54-0.

Stellmacher carried 10 times for 149 yards, completed 3-of-6 passes for 63 and added a 19-yard touchdown. Kelly O'Brien, who scored on runs of 7, 12 and 27 yards, gained 88 yards in only five carries.

Kurt McCulloch ran 52 yards, Bob Prellwitz 2 and Jim Kohl 4 for the other Tiger scores. Ripon totalled 451 yards to NF's 147.

Janssen Leads DePere Over Seymour, 28-6

Red Birds QB Passes For TD, Scores Another

DEPERE — Dan Janssen hit Mark Gossen with a 48-yard touchdown pass and ran for two more in leading DePere to a 28-6 win over De Pere in a Bay Conference opener played here Friday night.

Seymour countered after the TD strike to Gossen in the second quarter with signal caller Louis Wendt providing the running. After the Indians recovered a fumble on their own 37, Wendt scrambled out of a broken pass play and galloped 63 yards to paydirt.

Later in the period, however, the Red Birds went ahead to stay. The next six pointer was capped by Janssen's three-yard plunge. Roger Albers caught his second PAT pass to give DePere at 16-6 lead at intermission.

After a scoreless third period, the Red Birds added a pair of TD's in the fourth. The first was keyed by Janssen's 28-yard sprint to the promised land, and the finale saw Eric Anderson pop over from the two.

Janssen, who did just about everything for the winners, totaled 65 yards in nine carries, and pinpointed three aerials in nine tries for 93 yards. Albers gobbled up 47 yards in five attempts.

Wendt also threaded the needle with three passes, but he needed 12 tries for an 11-yard total. He tucked away the ball 12 times for 95 yards.

Depere rushed for 299 yards while limiting the Indians to 158, and they registered 11 first downs to five for Seymour.

Auburndale Wins 29th Straight

Wisconsin High School Teams Sustain Streaks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Auburndale, Port Edwards and Kewaunee sustained long winning streaks and Stevens Point marked a milestone Friday night in Wisconsin's first heavy high school football schedule of the year.

Auburndale, which had opened its season last weekend with a 12-6 squeaker over Edgar, flattened Rib Lake 54-0 for its 29th straight victory.

Apache quarterback Dennis Worzella passed for three touchdowns and intercepted a Rib Lake pass, returning it 35 yards for a score. Fred Ubrig caught four touchdown passes, three of them from Worzella.

Rip Amherst

Worzella's brother, Tim, rushed 13 times for 122 yards and Norm Lange added 104 in eight carries as the Apaches, though penalized 155 yards, rolled up 509 yards total offense.

Port Edwards made it 24 in a row with a 14-0 victory over Amherst, which many had figured to be Port's toughest opponent this year.

Kewaunee won its 18th in a row, 15-0 over Sturgeon Bay, as Paul Sinkula scored two touchdowns.

Stevens Point defeated Wausau East for the first time in 17 years, on quarterback Dan Krueger's seven-yard touchdown run in the final quarter.

East, defending Big Rivers Conference champion, played its first game in 34 years without Win Brockmeyer as coach. Brockmeyer had open heart surgery last spring and retired with a career record of 230-33-9.

Wisconsin Rapids, which had won five straight, was upended 12-7 by Medford, a 54-18 winner last week over Holmen.

Baraboo, which had beaten Sparta in a showdown of unbeatens for the South Central Conference crown in the last week of the 1970 season, opened with a 35-6 victory over Wisconsin Dells as Mike Puttkamer rushed for 119 yards and scored once.

Bloomington, defending Blackhawk champion, whipped Hanover, Ill., 32-0, behind three touchdowns and 194 yards in 25 carries by Grey Hermsen, Cassville swamped Potosi, 44-0, behind Tom Gehde's 133 yards and three touchdowns in 11 carries.

Westby's Larry Terry scored four touchdowns and gained 201 yards in nine carries in a 42-0 victory over Viroqua.

Pete Norgaren passed for four touchdowns and ran for another to lead Stoughton over Verona 38-22. Joe Majeski rushed 33 times for 217 yards as Luxemburg-Casco blanked Sheboygan Falls 21-0.

Cowan Grabs Top Spot In Amateur Golf

Cards 54-Hole 2-Under Total To Lead By One

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Canadian Gary Cowan, despite a bee sting and hot words with his playing partner's caddy, fired a two-under-par 69 Friday for a 54 hole total of 210 and a one stroke lead in the 71st annual National Amateur Golf Championship.

Cowan posted a round which included six birdies and four bogeys over the par-71 Wilmington Country Club Course to lead rebounding MM West III, Atlantic Coast Conference champion from the University of North Carolina by a stroke. West, the first round leader who fell back with a five over-par 76 Thursday, came back with a three under par 68 and a 54-hole total of 211.

Leaders Fall

The second-round co-leaders, Eddie Pearce of Temple, Fla., and Jim McLean of Seattle Eddie Pearce of Temple, Fla., and Jim McLean of Seattle, slipped to a deadlock for third place at 212. Pearce, Wake Forest College sophomore, and McLean, University of Houston senior, each shot 73, Friday.

Two strokes further back was Tom Culligan 29-year-old building contractor from San Mateo, Calif., who shot 69 for a three round total of 214. Three-time national amateur champion Marvin "Vinny" Giles and Ben Crenshaw, the NCAA champion from the University of Texas, were at 215, Giles shot three under 68 and the muscular Crenshaw 72 in the third round.

Tax Relief Bill Hearings Set Before Senate

Would Extend, Give Option to Elderly Computing Benefits

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Two bills to provide additional homestead tax relief to the elderly are slated for a hearing before a Senate committee Wednesday.

One of the measures would increase the amount of rent and taxes paid that are eligible for tax relief. The second proposal would give citizens over 65 an "optional method" of computing their homestead tax benefits.

The Senate Commerce, Labor, Taxation, Insurance and Banking Committee will also consider an amendment that would extend homestead tax relief to persons under 65 if they are getting aid to the blind, aid to the permanently disabled, or old-age assistance.

On the Assembly side, the Commerce and Consumer Affairs Committee will hear testimony Tuesday on a bill to broaden the definition of "hazardous substances."

Under present law, only flammable substances fit the definition.

The new measure would include any combustible articles as well as any children's toys declared an electrical, mechanical or thermal hazard by the Department of Agriculture.

Hearings include:

Tuesday:

Assembly Commerce and Consumer Affairs Committee, 10 a.m., 213 Northwest, A1246 broadening the definition of hazardous substances; A1247 to adopt the federal flammable fabrics act as the state standard.

Also, A1255 requiring all banks and savings and loan associations to inform depositors of savings plans and specify plans under which deposits are held.

Wednesday:

Senate Commerce Committee, 8 a.m. 335 South S191 increasing homestead tax relief benefits.

Also, S356 providing an alternate method of computing homestead tax relief to the elderly; S736 prohibiting vehicle removal without owner permission from private property until the issuance of an illegal parking citation.

Phone Company Ask Rate Change

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON —The Stockbridge and Sherwood Telephone Company has filed an application with the Public Service Commission seeking permission to discontinue two-party and four-party telephone service at the two exchanges and increase telephone rates.

A public hearing on the subject is scheduled for Oct. 7 at 9 a.m. at the Madison office of the commission.

Bill Kiss Placed on Probation for Thefts

An Appleton radio announcer, found guilty of nine counts of theft from the building where he worked, Friday was placed on three year's probation.

In passing sentence on William W. Kiss Jr., 35, of 35 Bellaire Court, Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer told him "I think its tragic that a person in your position should commit these acts." He added that he hoped Kiss had "a better understanding of your responsibilities."

Kiss was found guilty of thefts from various offices in the Irving Zuelke Building, where his employer, WAPL, is located.

Police arrested him after a dictaphone missing from one of the offices was found on an Appleton street. The officers played the machine and recognized the voice of the announcer.

The string of burglaries involved in the charges date back to Dec. 31, 1970. Items were taken from the Fox Valley Council of Governments office, vending machines belonging to Zaug's Pending Service, Mary Ebben Travel, Inc., the Edgar E. Becker office, Loewi and Co. Bonded Collectors Inc. and the J. M. Huber Corp.

Appleton Man Hurt in 4-Car Crash Friday

Out of Control Auto Careens Through Two Gas Stations

A 60-year-old Appleton man was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital Friday after his auto careened through the service islands of two gas stations and struck three cars.

The auto returned to Badger Avenue, crossed the center line, and struck the rear of an auto driven by Ben J. Vanden Huevel, 40, 2024 N. Eugene St., Appleton. Police credit Vanden Huevel with taking evasive action that prevented a head-on collision.

The two autos then struck parked cars owned by William B. Lueck, 733 E. Coolidge St., and Robert C. Gellert, 213 Elm St., Menasha.

Worster Returns to Texas To Complete B.A. Degree

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Steve Worster, the former All-American fullback charged with marijuana possession in Canada, has returned to the University of Texas, enrolling as a fulltime student.

A close friend, who declined to be quoted by name, talked recently of Worster's marijuana charge, saying, "He feels they will win this thing."

The friend said Worster has enrolled to try and complete work toward his bachelor's degree.

Started in Canada

Worster was charged last week in Hamilton, Ont., with possession of marijuana. He was the starting fullback for the Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Football League. Worster was placed on waivers after his arrest, as was starting defensive back Seth Miller, who was arrested with Worster.

A fourth-round draft choice in the National Football League, Worster went to Canada when he could not agree on contract terms with the team that drafted him, the Los Angeles Rams.

Langdon Viracola, an agent of many pro footballers, was quoted as saying that as soon as Worster's Sept. 28 hearing in Hamilton is over, Steve will be back in pro football."

Goldstrand Grabs Lead In Hartford

Fires 8-Under 63, J.C. Snead Trails by Two

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "I imagine there are guys who play like that all the time," Joel Goldstrand said. "I just wish I was one of them."

Goldstrand, a non-winner in his six years on the pro tour who hasn't finished higher than 12th this season, had just fired a remarkable, eight-under-par 63 for the first round lead in the $110,000 Greater Hartford Open golf tournament Friday.

The touring pros took advantage of the near-perfect golfing weather and the beautiful condition of the friendly little 6,568-yard par 71 Wethersfield Country Club course to make a mockery of par.

More than half the field was at par or better going into today's second round of this Friday-through-Monday event, with defending champion Bob Murphy, 71, and Lee Trevino, 70, well back in the field.

"I'm real tired," said Trevino, who suffered an emergency appendectomy after making a sweep of the United States, Canadian and British Open titles. He's been out of action for four weeks.

"That's only the third time I've walked 18 holes in a month," Trevino said.

Tied with Stockton for second at 65 were J. C. Snead, in a slump since winning two titles early this season, Johnny Miller and Jack Ewing.

At 66 were Deane Beman, Pete Brown, Dick Lotz, rookie Hubert Green, veteran Paul Harney, Fred Marti, Bunky Henry and Gordon Jones.

Goldstrand, a 32-year-old from Worthington, Minn., rolled in a 12 foot birdie putt on the first hole, laced irons to within five feet on the second and fourth, knocked in a 20 footer on the seventh, then birdied four consecutive holes coming home.

That string started on the 14th where he wedged to four feet. He scored from 21 feet on the 15th, then put iron shots within four feet on the next two holes.

Fighter Denies Using Illegal Boxing Tactics

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Ismael Laguna scoffed at charges by world lightweight champion Ken Buchanan that he used illegal tactics in their first fight and said Friday that he would win the title back.

Buchanan, of Scotland, claimed during and after the fight in which he won the title by decision from Laguna last year that the Panamanian thumbed him.

"I've never fought that way," Laguna said after sparring seven rounds in preparation for a return match with Buchanan in New York's Madison Square Garden Sept. 13.

"Nobody's ever accused me of thumbing before. I don't need to do it to win. I have a plan to win but I can't say what it is."

Falcons Obtain Dick Shiner As 5th Quarterback

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons added a fifth quarterback to their roster Friday and observers said it almost sent veteran Randy Johnson packing.

The new Falcon acquisition, announced by team officials, is Dick Shiner, an eight year veteran from the University of Maryland who has played for Cleveland, Pittsburgh and the New York Giants. He was a 7th round draft pick by Washington in 1964.

In addition to Johnson and Shiner, the Falcons now have three other quarterbacks on the squad. They are Bob Berry, the starter; reserve Bruce Lemmerman and rookie Leo Hart.

Preliminary Hearings Are Not 'a Right'

State Supreme Court Terms Examinations 'Extra Safeguards'

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin Supreme Court said Thursday a preliminary examination is not a right, but an 'extra precautionary safeguard," of a defendant who is indicted by a grand jury

The court issued an opinion explaining its ruling two weeks ago in the case of Waukesha County Coroner James Welch, who was indicted by a grand jury on charges of theft and misconduct in public office

Welch's attorneys argued that the secret grand jury proceeding does not guarantee the same rights as a preliminary examination, where both the defense and prosecution are represented His request for such a hearing was denied in Waukesha County Court, and appealed to the Supreme Court

The court ruled the right to a preliminary examination is not a constitutional one, but depends on whether statutes guarantee one Although indictments handed down by grand juries aren't specifically excluded, the court said, there is nothing that says they're included either

"In spite of the meritorious arguments of the petitioner," the opinion said, "we are not convinced our present statutes were intended to provide a preliminary examination to an accused in cases where he is charged by an indictment with a felony '

Tom Jones Sings His TV Farewell

BY TV SCOUT

7:30-8:30 Channels 11-9 — Tom Jones — In Concert is the Welsh Belter's last special of the season But then, the season is over, isn't it? Anyway, the program is mostly Tom singing the songs associated with him, with Norm Crosby as his sole guest

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — Adventure Theater, in its last outing, has a World War II adventure with Peter Falk, Susan Strasberg, the late Paul Lukas, Robert Strauss and John Van Dreelan involved in a plan to steal plans for German rocketry weapons, behind enemy lines, of course

7:30-Conclusion Channel 5 — The St Louis Cardinals meet the Kansas City Chiefs in an American Football Conference Pre-Season Game

4-5:30 Channels 11-9 — Wide World of Sports heads, as it does every year at this time to Williamsport, Pa for the 25th Annual Little League World Series game Jim McKay handles the play-by-play with former Yankee great Mickey Mantel providing the commentary

Academy Award Winner Julie Christie is shown in two poses, at left, as she appears in Columbia Pictures' "The Go-Between" in the Joseph Losey bittersweet romance of 1900 England, and as she really looks off-camera. Other movie stars in "The Go-Between" are Michael Redgrave, Margaret Leighton and Alan Bates. The movie was named the best of the Cannes Film Festival earlier in the year, receiving the Golden Palm Award

Characters He Plays From People-Watching

Godfrey Cambridge Stretches Observations Out to 'Nth Degree'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Godfrey Cambridge is a people-watcher and the people he watches often turn up in the characters he plays

Cambridge stretched across the table and said, "I've seen these guys who come through my life I've seen the guys who chew cigars and never light them or snap their fingers when they talk or never take their hat off

"I have to pattern my characters after people I know or people I've observed," he said 'I'm responsible for what goes on that screen I've got to do my homework "

In a two-part show for NBC's 'Wonderful World of Disney," he plays Willie Dorsey, a man he describes as a "loveable rascal who manages by hustling and who makes it on his wits "

"I patterned Willie after two guys I know," Cambridge said "One is a handyman He's got a college degree, but he says to heck with it, I don't feel like teaching So he's a handyman with an unlisted phone number and he's really found his satisfaction

"And I patterned the role after an acquaintance I'll call Shifty This guy always carries a Chicago bank roll—a $50 bill wrapped around a wad of ones He says he never has change to pay for anything and he's always taking me over the coals "

Cambridge plays a veteran who uses his mustering out pay to buy a service station—but doesn't have enough money left to stock any gas He has to talk his customers out of buying gas

For his role as Grave Digger Jones in "Cotton Comes To Harlem," he spent 16-hours-a-day at the 28th Precinct in Harlem watching policemen and accompanying them on calls.

"In 'Cotton' I never took off my hat I picked that up from one of the detectives," he said "I asked him why and he said it was because he was always going in and out of places

"I wanted to wear cufflinks, but the costume designer said, no, that's too fancy So one detective I was with made an arrest and he was furious with the guy for breaking his cufflinks I wore cufflinks "

Cambridge played a white insurance salesman in "The Watermelon Man"—it took 2½ hours daily in makeup to transform him from black to white "I patterned that after a man who snaps his fingers and says, 'Did you hear the one about ?' If there's one thing I hate as a comedian it's a guy who says, 'Did you hear the one about ?'"

Cambridge, who probably is best known as a comedian, said, "My comedy routine is a comment on character It comes out of character stretched You carry a situation to the nth degree It's all a matter of observation "

TW to Get $1 Million

Sea Grant Program Receives Federal Funds for Research

MADISON, Wis (AP) — The University of Wisconsin sea grant program was advised Thursday it will receive $1 million from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration

The sea grant program consists of education and research efforts concerning marine resources and environment in the upper Great Lakes region

Areas now under study include Lake Michigan, Door County, Green Bay and Lake Superior

Problems being investigated include thermal pollution from electric power plants, water quality in Green Bay, and extension of the Great Lakes shipping season

Protection Bill for Mourning Dave Assured Passage

Post Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A bill to assure the mourning dove statutory protection as a song bird is apparently assured of enactment by the legislature

The state assembly committee on natural resources has urged its enactment in a top-heavy vote Earlier, the measure by Sen Reuben LaFave of Oconto was overwhelmingly passed by the upper house of the legislature The bird is now on the list of protected species by order of the state board of natural resources but the board periodically receives proposals asking for a hunting season

The LaFave bill also would make the popular bird "the Wisconsin symbol of peace "

Library to Begin Fall Schedule At Kimberly

KIMBERLY — Fall and winter hours at the public library will go into effect Tuesday, according to Miss Joann Fleming librarian

New hours will be from 1 to 9 p m Monday through Thursdays and 1 to 5 p m Fridays Saturday hours will be from 9 a m to 3 p m making a 42-hour week

The children's section of the library, for youngsters below eighth grade level, will close at 6 30 p m Monday through Thursday to eliminate disturbance for older students and adults who may be using facilities for study or research purposes

A story hour for preschool children is scheduled to begin at 2 30 p m Sept 21 and to run each Tuesday for 15 consecutive weeks

The 2 30 p m time was selected to accommodate children in the habit of napping, but the schedule could be adjusted if mothers indicate some other hour would be more favorable the librarian said

Both Sides of Private School Aid Heard

Strain From Lobbying Shows in Legislators; Told Not to Succumb

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The state Assembly heard appeals Thursday on both sides of the topic of whether the state should give financial aid to parents of private school children.

Forgetting for a moment a stack of technical amendments before them, legislators dwelled on the philosophical question of whether a tax exemption system would be in conflict with the principles of freedom of religion embodied in the Constitution.

Legislators also showed the strain of lobbying activities on the issue, which resulted in a deluge of what lawmakers estimated at from 50 to 100 times the normal number of telegrams at the Capitol.

"There's not one of us who hasn't been subject to a long period of harassment on this issue," Rep. Midge Miller, D-Madison, said. "If we succumb because we can't stand up to a few lobbyists, we have not done a good thing for the state or country."

"There's no basis for predicting that comprehensive systems for the surveillance and control of public schools will not follow," said Rep. F. James Sensenbrenner, R-Shorewood.

"Sooner or later the government surveillance over non-public schools will increase," he said.

With courts having ruled direct aid to parochial schools is unconstitutional, Wisconsin legislators are now considering a bill which would allow parents of private school students to count tuition payments toward state income tax deductions.

"This isn't aid to religion, it's aid to education," Rep. Merrill Stalbaum, R-Waterford, said.

"If only 15 per cent of the students in private schools shift to public schools, more money would be spent than on this proposal," Rep. Paul E. Sicula argued.

He added that aid plans in Pennsylvania and Rhode Island, which were subsequently declared unconstitutional, provided funds directly to schools, compared with an indirect system being proposed in Wisconsin.

One lawmaker said a colleague received a letter from a constituent with $1 enclosed, urging support of the bill.

He said the colleague wrote back to the woman, telling her she should mail the $1 to Citizens for Educational Freedom, so the organization could send a telegram to him in her behalf.

Lutheran Laymen Holding Retreat At Camp Luther

CLINTONVILLE — The 1971 Lutheran Laymen League's retreat will be held at Camp Luther from Friday evening through Sunday noon (Sept. 10-12).

James Barton, the North Wisconsin District treasurer, will be the guest lecturer, speaking on the topic, "You — In New Guinea." He was a lay missionary in New Guinea for 5½ years and has parallels to draw between the work in New Guinea and the work in the church and neighborhood in this area. Barton will also show slides of the country and his work.

Mayor Dyke Says State Should Give Emergency Funds

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Legislators ought to provide emergency assistance to municipal treasuries while they prolong their debate over a 1971-73 state budget, an annoyed Mayor William Dyke said Friday.

The mayor of the state capital city said municipal officials are unable to draw up their local budgets because legislators have not resolved disputes over reform of the system under which Wisconsin shares its tax revenues with cities.

A legislative conference committee has offered a compromise plan, but Senate Republicans have shown hostility toward the formula being backed by Assembly Democrats.

The dispute has helped stall adoption of a state budget which was to have gone into effect July 1.

Dyke said Friday he has legislative assurances that measures will be introduced, calling for a $26 million emergency fund for cities.

Distribution of the fund would parallel existing revenue sharing methods until legislators decide whether to adopt a new formula or maintain the 1969-71 pattern.

The mayor declined to say what he thinks the legislature could use as a fiscal source for the emergency fund.

Cities need "extra money right now," Dyke said.

The compromise committee, having voted to remain idle on the budget until Senate Republicans act on tax sharing, went into recess Thursday for at least a week and possibly until Sept. 28.

Dyke's plan would provide Milwaukee with $10.5 million in addition to existing state aid, Madison with $1.7 million, Eau Claire about $400,000 and La-Crosse about $560,000. A city with a population exceeding 250,000 would gain $15 per citizen. Smaller cities would get $10 or less.

Meanwhile, the existing formula attracted Dyke's protest.

He said it needs reforming because it doesn't "take into consideration that spending patterns of cities change as the city gets larger."

OSU Student Electrocuted

Police Arrive As Youth Plunges From Light Pole

OSHKOSH — An Oshkosh State University student from Lake Forest, Ill. was electrocuted Friday when he climbed a light pole.

A Crime Check alert about 9:30 p.m. sent Oshkosh police to the 400 block of N. Westfield Street in time to see a young man fall from near the top of a light pole he was climbing.

Coroner Duane I. Moore said that death was due to electrocution.

Identification of the young man was withheld until next of kin could be notified. Lake Forest authorities reported the young man's parents were vacationing in Michigan and efforts are being made to locate them.

The young man, about 21, was dead on arrival at Mercy Medical Center where he was taken by Moore Ambulance. Utility company spokesmen said his body had blown a transformer.

Police said they found a second youth, Michael J. Wightman, 435 N. Westfield St., at the scene when they arrived, pleading with him to come down. He told police he knew the victim only as Rick and that they had been chatting before the victim said he thought he could climb the pole. Wightman was treated for shock at Mercy Medical Center and released.

Police had called to the young man not to go any higher as they saw him start over the back of the street light. One officer was radioing for a fire truck with aerial ladder when there was a flash from the pole and the young man fell to the ground. They applied first aid until the ambulance arrived.

An identifcation card found on the body showed him to be a student living at 439 N. Westfield St.

Clintonville Golf Championship To be Determined

CLINTONVILLE — The club championship tournament is being held this weekend at the Clintonville Riverside Golf Club, and will continue through Monday.

On Monday, from 9 to 10 a.m. is reserved for tee offs for championship foursomes in all flights. This year's champions in the various handicapped groups are being determined in a combination of medalist and match play. Up to this time, competitors have been eliminated in hole by hole match play, but on Labor Day, the foursomes in each of the flights will tee off between 9 and 10 a.m. and the lowest total score will determine the champions.

The annual Labor Day brunch at the clubhouse will be from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

United Methodist Sunday Hours Return to Normal

CLINTONVILLE — Family worship service will return to its regular time of 10:45 a.m. Sept. 12 at the United Methodist church. This Sunday will be the final early service at 9 a.m.

Rally Day will be observed Sept. 12 with the beginning of church school classes at 9:15 a.m. The education work area room, and all church school teachers will be installed during the worship service. Bibles will be presented to the third grade students.

The senior choir under the direction of James Salaman will present special music.

Police & Fire Beat

CLINTONVILLE — The volunteer rescue squad was called at 8 p.m. Wednesday to assist Earl Smith, 84 Dodge St., who had become ill. Smith was taken to the Clintonville Community Hospital.

Menasha Banker Completes Course

MENASHA — Thomas E. Niesen of the Bank of Menasha recently completed the annual two-week residence session of the 27th Annual Graduate School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

The school, sponsored by the Central State Conference consisting of the banker's associations of 16 midwestern states, requires attendance for two weeks each year for three years for graduation.

Judge Orders Briefs In Theft by Contract Case Against Man

Outagamie County Judge Gustave A. Keller ordered written briefs in the case of an Appleton man accused of theft by contract.

The briefs were ordered today in the case of Clifford Barth, 46, 400 N. Appleton St.

Barth, according to a complaint, had wrongfully represented that he had paid all bills related to contracting work he did for an Appleton woman late last year.

He allegedly had not used money forwarded to him to pay a $71.30 bill from a concrete products firm.

Final action on the case will depend on the filing of the briefs.

'New' Has Real Meaning in FVTI Fall Fare

BY MAIJA PENIKIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"New" is the word that covers a great many things at the Fox Valley Technical Institute this fall.

It started out this week with the teacher orientation sessions at the central facility, off of U.S. 41, County Trunk OO and Bluemound Road.

The $6 million, six-building plant is well on its way to completion and a great portion of it will be in use by Tuesday.

In the curriculum area, five new vocational-technical programs will begin this fall.

Full-time programs in pulp and paper technology, operating room assistants, occupational therapy assistants, ward clerks and interior decoration are to be added to the 32 already in existence.

Other new programs studied for the future are diesel mechanics, fire science technology, social service assistants, real estate and an associate degree program in nursing.

A number of other new health occupations programs are also under consideration.

More emphasis this school year will be placed on the offering of credit courses in the evening school program to permit regularly employed adults the opportunity to take advantage of the programs and work toward an associate degree in their particular field.

Pre-Testing Program

A special pre-testing program will be available in order to grant credit to people with demonstrated skills acquired from past experience or education.

Other innovations being planned for the year include the development of work experience programs for students and the initiation of independent studies for certain other programs.

New teaching methods including instructional materials, learning laboratories, entrance testing and placement, flexible scheduling, self-paced instruction and the use of media and electronic teaching machines will be a part of the fall curriculums.

According to Stanley Spanbauer, head of instructional services, the programs have been designed to individualize instruction and use teachers and para-professionals more effectively and provide a greater flexibility for the student.

Learning packages for the pilot programs have been written by staff members which require precisely stated learning goals for each course or unit.

Traditional large-group lectures are eliminated because for the pilot courses, information is found on audio tapes, often accompanied by visual demonstrations.

This enables the students to proceed at their own rate and speed, receiving credit for the course when the objectives are mastered.

The process is expected to permit students to finish courses sooner and graduate earlier than before. It also allows slower students more time for remedial training and tutorial programs and frees the instructor to provide individual attention.

Learning laboratories in reading, mathematics, typing, small engine repair, truck driving, secretarial machines, social studies and English have been set up at the Oshkosh school.

A mobile reading laboratory will be available for students within the district, which will help with adult education.

In addition, the Appleton school and new central facility will have learning labs in typing, secretarial machines, social studies, English, machine trades, automotive and welding.

All of the labs are open during day and evening hours to accommodate working people or those who want and need additional laboratory work.

While procedures differ somewhat among the various departments, the new process will normally permit students to enroll in these courses throughout the year, instead of just at the normal September and January dates.

Another area of endeavor by Spanbauer's staff is differentiated staffing which has received a $51,000 federal concept geared to make better use of educational personnel in laboratories using self-paced instructional media and materials.

It is linked with a more positive use of para-professionals, which allows the teacher to use his or her time more effectively.

When the program is set up, it will serve as a model for vocational-technical education for Wisconsin.

Man to Face Trial on Fraud, Embezzling

A former vice president and general manager of the W.S. Patterson Co. was bound over to Circuit Court Thursday on four counts of theft by fraud and four counts of embezzlement.

No trial date has been set for Robert Vik, 35, Waukesha, who appeared before Outagamie Judge Nick F. Schaefer.

Vik says he is now a vice president of Midwest Plumbing Co., Milwaukee. He is free on a $5,000 bond.

R. Thomas Cane, Outagamie County, assistant district attorney, said the charges represented about four months' investigation.

Vik is alleged to have used his position with the Patterson Co. to issue false credit memos to various Fox Valley area contractors and suppliers who did work on his home. Patterson is a wholesale plumbing and heating supply firm.

The credit memos were on accounts the contractors and suppliers had with the W.S. Patterson Co.

Vik also is alleged to have deposited checks made out to W.S. Patterson Co. in his personal account.

The offenses, all felonies, are said to have occurred between May 1967 and November 1969. The Patterson firm lost about $17,000, the district attorney's office reported.

Vik worked for Patterson for five years, until late 1969.

Waupaca Accidents Increase in August

WAUPACA — Five traffic fatalities and an increase of six per cent in the number of traffic accidents for the year on Waupaca County roads mark August as a "bad traffic" month Capt. Jack Penney reported to the county law enforcement committee Thursday.

Fatalities to date reached 14, four less than for the same eight month period one year ago.

Deaths included, those of Raymond T. Riste, 23, Iola, on Aug. 15; Earl L. Kempka, 54, 651 West Prairie St., Columbus, Wis., on Aug. 26 and the one car accident which took the lives of Gary Thompson, 18, Clintonville, Vaughn Van Epps, 24, and Robert H. Barker, Weyauwega on Aug. 29.

Accidents filed to date total 412, which is 18 more than the number filed for the same period one year ago.

During August there were 69 accidents, 65 of them handled by the Waupaca County Police, three by the State Patrol and one by the Sheriff's Department.

Penney summarized that there were 96 vehicles involved and there were 37 personal injuries.

The traffic patrol traveled 25,419 miles during the month, made 85 traffic arrests, six criminal arrests, issued 27 five-day tickets, made 11 blood runs, escorted six funerals, transported eight prisoners and assisted 53 motorists in trouble.

In addition, 278 radio calls were handled, 28 telephone calls received, and assists were given on 31 cases from the sheriff's department.

Man Found With Truck Being Held

A 22-year-old Kaukauna man, accused of taking a truck without the owners consent, will have a court appointed attorney when he appears before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer Sept. 7.

Richard Geborak, 419 W. Park St., was apprehended by Calumet and state officers Thursday after he allegedly took the vehicle from Keller Structures Inc., route 3, Kaukauna, the truck struck several posts near Hilbert and ran out of gas on Kees Road west of Hilbert. Geborak was apprehended a few hundred yards from the truck by officers who were pursueing it.

He was found indigent by the court Friday afternoon and appointed public counsel. Geborek is being held in Outagamie County jail in under $1,500 bond.

Man Given Probation At Waupaca

WAUPACA — Wayne Schoenick, 20, route 2, Weyauwega, was sentenced Friday, in county court branch 1, to three years in the Green Bay Reformatory on the charges of taking indecent liberties with a child and attempting to have sexual intercourse with a child.

Judge Wendell McHenry stayed the sentence and placed Schoenick on three years probation to the Wisconsin Department of Social Services. The condition of that probation is that he spend six months in the county jail, pay all costs of the action, and receive psychiatric help at the Waupaca-Shawano Mental Health Clinic.

Schoenick was arrested on July 14 in the City of Weyauwega on the morals offense which involved a 14-year-old Weyauwega girl.

Examinations Ordered for Man In Car Theft Case

WAUPACA — Judge Wendell McHenry, County court branch 1, ordered a 30-day mental examination for Julius Schultz, 45, Stevens Point, being held in the county jail on suspicion of car theft.

Bond set at $1,000, or $100 cash, by Court Commissioner Laurie Anderson on Aug. 23 is continued.

Schultz was taken to Central State Hospital, Waupun for tests, and if able to stand trial, will face the car theft charge.

The defendant was returned to Waupaca on Aug. 27, after Two Rivers police found him sleeping in a car on the main street in Two Rivers.

The car was reported stolen on Aug. 24 by the owner Mrs. Genevieve Durrant, 214 South Main St., Waupaca. It has been parked in a lot behind the store at that address.

Wittenberg Enrollment Less Than Expected

WITTENBERG — Preliminary enrollment figures for Joint School District No. 2, Wittenberg-Birnamwood Schools, as of Monday, showed a total of 1778, or an average daily attendance of 1724 (1778, less 55 — ½ of the Kindergarten enrollment of 111). Although down from the anticipated attendance of 1755, it is quite likely that an increase of the needed 11 will take place by Sept. 17.

Enrollments by schools are as follows: Birnamwood, K-8, 377; Eland, 1-4, 111; Elderon, K, 5-8 153; Galloway, 1-4, 112; Wittenberg, K-8, 411; total elementary 1164.

High school enrollment is as follows: freshmen, 156; sophomores, 160; juniors, 153; seniors, 143, total high schools, 614. Total enrollment is 1778.

Installation of equipment at new Witt-Birn High School is still underway. Sinks and furniture in the science laboratories are expected to be finished by the end of the week. Library furniture and shelving were due to be put in place by Wednesday. Furniture and cabinetry is presumably completely installed in art, music and home economics areas by now.

Work is also continuing at the old high school in Wittenberg. Two classrooms are being made ready in the 1958 addition, plus a receiving-storage room (former agriculture shop). Relocation of the fire escape to the 1937 classroom section is also underway. Replacement of heating and lighting fixtures is also planned for some of the 1958 areas.

All schools will be closed on Monday. Witt-Birn High School and all five elementary units will re-open Tuesday.

Legion Baseball, Inc., entertained fathers and sons at a recent awards banquet served by the Weyauwega American Legion Auxiliary. Statistics Differ, but Crime Increased

According to the FBI's Uniform Crime Report, the serious crime rate in Appleton increased 11 per cent in 1970, half the percentage recorded by the Appleton Police Department.

The discrepancy is the result of the different recording policies of the two enforcement agencies.

The FBI recorded burglaries and larcenies $50 and over, while the police department, released in March, included all burglaries and larcenies no matter how small the dollar amount involved.

Crimes in the under $50 category increased 30.7 per cent in Appleton. According to Police Chief Earl O. Wolff the increase is due to the increase of apprehension of shoplifters by merchants. Those cases are often processed by police.

Slight Increase

In comparison to some other Wisconsin cities according to the FBI report, Appleton's crime increase is slight.

Oshkosh and Manitowoc reported serious crime increases of more than 60 per cent. Oshkosh Police Chief Harry Guenther, however, suggested Tuesday that the dramatic increases might be the result of new systems for keeping statistics.

But Guenther added, "I have no doubt that there was an increase in every category."

As in Appleton, many cities in the state, according to the FBI, registered burglary and larceny increases. A state official suggested that inflation may be jacking up more goods to the $50 level.

Decrease in Superior

Serious crime for the state overall increased 11 per cent, lower than 1969's increase of 13 per cent. The national rates were 11 per cent last year and 2 per cent in 1969.

Superior was credited with a 23 per cent decrease in crime by the FBI.

But Superior officials said it was simply a result of some errors in the FBI's 1969 tabulations. The decrease, they said, is closer to 15 or 20 per cent.

The report's breakdown, with 1970 increases for crimes ranging from murder and aggravated assault to larceny and car theft, showed Milwaukee up 5 per cent and Madison up 41 per cent.

Wolff pointed out that percentages can sometimes be misleading. If the number of crimes in a category is small, any change can make a big difference in the percentage.

In 1969, he said, for example, Appleton had two homicides. In 1970 there were none, or a 200 per cent decrease.

Calumet County Fair Opens With Attendance High

CHILTON — A record gate of 4,000 attended the Calumet County Fair Friday night with a large number of them children taking advantage of the reduced ride prices of kiddie day.

The hot, humid weather made it difficult for some exhibitors to keep their animals calm, cool and collected. They sprayed the livestock most of the day with cooling water.

Some exhibitors waited until the early hours of the evening when temperatures dropped to bring in their animals.

Snowmobile races tonight will begin at 8 p.m.

A horsepulling contest will be Sunday morning in light and heavy divisions starting at 10. A horse show will feature saddle and pony pulling events. TV personalities John Check and the Wisconsin Dutchmen will entertain. Stock car races will go on in the evening.

Homosexuality, Drug Problem

Report on Kettle Moraine Boys School Being Probed

PLYMOUTH, Wis (AP) — The governor's office says it is investigating a newspaper report which quoted inmates of the Kettle Moraine Boys School as claiming homosexual behavior and drug use are nothing unusual in the minimum security institution.

The Janesville Gazette published a series of articles after a 16-year-old youth came to the newspaper office as a runaway.

The Gazette said the boy, home on furlough from the school, became physically ill when his mother and two adult friends tried to return him to the school.

"He begged and pleaded with us not to force him to go back to that place," John Kurschner of Janesville wrote in a letter to Gov. Patrick J. Lucey. "He told us he would willingly serve the rest of his time at Green Bay, Rock County Jail or anywhere," Kurschner stated, referring to the Green Bay Reformatory.

The superintendent of Kettle Moraine, Paul Prast, discounted most of the claims. But he has ordered some policy changes after questioning about 40 of the 200 youths at the school as well as some supervisors.

Investigations

Spokesmen for the governor said Friday that Lucey has asked Cheryl Rosen, head of a task force studying the state's penal institutions, to contact Kurschner and investigate conditions at the school.

Kurschner and Robert Pasch have been asked to meet with a task force subcommittee within a week. The men operate the Deadwood Trading Post in Janesville and are friends of the Janesville youth.

Kurschner's letter to the governor outlined the boy's complaints about the school.

The youth was finally picked up by Prast Aug. 26 and taken back to the school where he was held in maximum security. Friday he had been transferred to Mendota State Hospital for psychological examinations.

Kurschner said the boy told him "he just couldn't take the homosexuality, drugs or psychological and physical abuse that he says are a day-by-day way of life at Kettle Moraine."

The boy was sent to the institution last March.

Smuggled

He and other inmates interviewed inside the school told a newsman marijuana, LSD and "downers" are smuggled into the school and are readily available to those who want them.

They also said inmates on a conservation project have harvested wild marijuana plants and smuggled them into the school.

"Marijuana grows right out here in the woods," one boy said. "It's not the best grass, but it works."

Another said prescription pills are stolen from the school's infirmary, then used or sold by inmates.

Since a newsman visited the school last week, Prast said he has issued an order that cabinets containing drugs be locked at all times. Locks on the cabinets have been changed, and Prast has interviewed 40 boys about the use of drugs in the school.

He said he feels drug use is minimal.

"Maybe a joint (marijuana cigarette) comes in once in a while," he said, but that's about the extent of the problem.

He said the drugs kept in the infirmary are "downers" containing libruium and cocaine. The boys apparently get them as they are prescribed.

Pill Problem

"What they apparently do is put the pills in their mouths but do not swallow them," Prast said. "Then when they leave the infirmary they take the pills out and save them for later use."

Prast also discounted claims of homosexuality. He said overt problem is "mostly", and overt acts just don't occur.

But the 16-year-old said he was bothered every day.

Another youth told Prast and a reporter: "I've been seriously propositioned once—he was bigger than me. But I told him to lay off, and since then nobody bothers me."

Prast asked the boy if he was afraid of being beaten up or of homosexual activities, and the boy replied: "I'm afraid of both."

The Janesville boy said he told his counselors and supervisors about the problem and they advised him not to pay attention to it.

"But you have to pay attention to it," he said "You can't help it when every time you sit down to a meal somebody grabs you."

The inmates blame some of the problems on a group of youths returned from the Green Bay Reformatory after a Supreme Court ruling which said, in effect, boys not convicted of serious crimes cannot be held at the reformatory.

The 25 youths developed tough attitudes at Green Bay and now run Kettle Moraine, including some of the counselors, the Janesville boy said.

Prast blamed the Supreme Court rulings for increasing the runaway problem at Kettle Moraine.

He said boys are no longer threatened with being sent to Green Bay if they "go AWOL" from the boys school.

Rural Politicians Dissect Redistricting

BY BOB LAUX
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

BLACK CREEK — The basement of the village bank was filled with Fourth of July speechmaking and forecasts of doom Friday night as rural politicians had their say about county reapportioning the board.

It was the second in a series of public meetings on the "magic number" of supervisors who will make up a new board. In Black Creek, any number under 43 was anathema.

Supv. Charles Wussow, Appleton, chairman of the special reapportionment committee, explained the mechanics of bringing the districts into line with the "one man, one vote rule."

He produced two maps he drew with revised boundaries, and said the one with 23 districts worked out better than 29 in preserving municipal boundaries. The maps were only examples.

County Officers

Since the supervisors are classified as county officers, Wussow said, they are not to be confused with municipal representatives. Population is the chief criterion for redistricting, although new districts should be compact and contiguous and respect government boundaries.

Changing the districts to conform with the 1970 census can start as soon as Outagamie's population is officially certified by the secretary of state. If the figures arrive before Jan. 1, supervisors could run in the revised districts in the spring election.

So much for mechanics. Emmett Root, Hortonville, a former board member, said, "Now let us be just a little careful when we reapportion. When we in Outagamie County or in any other county lower the number of supervisors, we're going to lose the home rule back home."

Root warned that the board would turn into a commission government if it were reduced below 43, the magic number considered when the county last redistricted in 1966. The rural areas would lose power, he said. "Common sense tells you its going to be a city operated county."

Edward Peotter, Seymour, another board veteran, quoted a book of prophecies written 10 years ago which predicted that town government would be replaced by county government, county by state and states by the federal government — "and some of these things have already come true."

He attacked the idea of increasing the per diem pay of supervisors from the present $22 rate. "I believe if you make the job attractive in wages you won't get a better man. You'll get a poorer man who's not dedicated to Outagamie County."

State Rep. Ervin W. Conradt, Shiocton, agreed that cutting the board down would result in a commission form of government. He spoke about the wisdom of the founding fathers who had written the state and federal constitutions and said, "If these forefathers could come back and see what has taken place in the last 25 years, they would say 'Get thee hence.'

"I dont' think we have combined in this room tonight the intelligence of one of our forefathers."

When Conradt started talking about the shared tax distribution fight in the state legislature and all the money Outagamie County would lose to Milwaukee, Wussow asked him to confine his remarks to reapportionment.

"The Whole Load"

Conradt, rebutted, "I'm going to give you the whole load tonight. Oh, I might save some for county board day." He was backed up by a chorus from the floor: "Let him talk," and "This is educational."

Conradt finished his speech about taxes and annexation to a round of applause. He had said he would never vote for a county board reduced by more than four members.

Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, advocated a vote on the magic number at the September meeting. It was easy, he said, to generate negative feelings against a redistricted map. A better solution would be for the special committee to propose the number of supervisors and then redraw the lines. The reason the districts are so imbalanced now, he said, was that the 1966 realignment was based on 1960 census figures.

Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, chairman of the 1966 reapportionment group, said, "You do not create more efficiency in government by lowering the number. My idea of government is this: That government is a slow process — it's not like business. When you finally do make a decision you come out with a better decision than if it was made by just a few."

"Benevolent Dictator"

"When you talk about efficient government, the most efficient government there is is a benevolent dictatorship — if you can find a benevolent dictator," Babbitt said.

Voter apathy was the main concern of Supv. Joseph Kasparek, Black Creek. A fewer number of supervisors would make the lack of government contact even worse, he said.

Supv. Fred Rehfeldt, Appleton, announced that he had a change of heart since his proposal earlier this year that the board be cut to 25 members. Now he favors at least 41 members, he said.

Wussow said after the meeting that he would present alternative maps to the board to consider when redistricting.

The final public meeting will be at the courthouse in Appleton at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Wussow read a letter from the "Outagamie Citizens Group for Redistricting" which advocated a drastic cut in the board and said, "This is so you know what you're up against."

The group is headed by former Appleton Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings and is composed of the League of Women Voters, the Appleton Area and Heart of the Valley chambers of commerce, the Appleton Jaycettes and the Outagamie Democratic party.

County Sanitarian Gets New Support

Stopped in past years by the strong opposition of rural Outagamie County supervisors, the County Board health committee again is attempting to secure a county sanitarian — this time through a full, federally funded program.

Dr. Kenneth Gibson, committee chairman, said the committee is asking County Executive Alvin Woehler and the Emergency Employment Act of 1971 council members to consider including the county sanitarian job in its request for funds.

The county has been allotted over $50,000 for salaries and other costs for the program designed to provide jobs for the unemployed.

The health committee revived its request because of the possible funding, Gibson said. "This job area has had the greatest amount of study and the greatest amount of need in the county," he added

He said that he hoped Woehler and the council would be able to include the job in the funding. He said the job could be created and operated for a year on federal funds, without county board approval, and he predicted that rural supervisors then would be convinced of the value of a sanitarian.

Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan chairman and leader of the successful opposition to hiring one in past years, disagreed

"I see no need for one," he said, predicting that continued rural supervisory opposition.

DeBruin said that Frank Charlesworth, coordinator of public services, could handle many of the sanitarian tasks. Gibson contended that Charlesworth didn't have the time for such work

The sanitarian proponent said he envisioned the sanitarian as one who would prevent unhealthy conditions in the county through programs, such as rat control, and checking of well water and sewage tanks.

In its letter to the council members, the committee said the sanitarian would administer and enforce the sanitation code, report health nuisances and improve enviornmental sanitation

Gibson said he felt a qualified person could be hired for the recommended salary of about $7,500. He said the EEA program allows salaries up to about $12,000

Gibson said Fond du Lac County hired a sanitarian a year ago and is looking for a second, and Calumet County also is looking for one

Work Stops Until Boiler Is Replaced

Marion Plywood Workmen to Return To Plant Tuesday

MARION — Two separate incidents which occurred midnight Thursday at Marion Plywood Corp. resulted in a temporary lay-off for the work crew on Friday

George Miller, the only man on duty at that time, discovered that dust near the boiler had caught fire and that the automatic sprinkler system has put it out.

In the excitement of making certain the fire was out Miller failed to notice that the boiler pump wasn't running Resulting damage put the boiler out of commission. A fuse had blown which caused the boiler to run low on water and this caused the pump to stop working

A spare boiler at the plant is being put into operation, but workers were unable to get it done in time to use Friday so the plant was shut down

Workers will return to their jobs on Tuesday, according to Emory Rogers, president of the corporation. There was no damage caused by the fire Rogers said

Car Strikes RR Signal, Man Hurt

NEENAH — George V. Slowronski, 42, route 1, Sugar Tree Lane, sustained a cut on left forearm when his car went out of control at 12:01 p.m. Friday and hit a signal post at the intersection of E. Forest Avenue and the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad tracks

Police said Slowronski reportedly dropped something on the floor, and in reaching down to pick it up lost control of the vehicle. He was headed east on Forest.

Weyauwega Park

Swim Lake to Beat Winter

WEYAUWEGA — The swimming lake, latest Weyauwega city park improvement, should be completed and filled before winter, if all goes according to schedule.

About a year ago the plan for the lake jelled. Designs had to be studied and submitted to the state for approval. Upon receiving this approval, a campaign was organized to raise the necessary $30,000. To date $24,000 has been pledged.

Faulks Brothers excavated the figure eight shape bed. The shallow end is 100 x 100 feet and is two and a half to four feet deep A safety rope will stretch across the four foot end.

The swimmers area with a maximum depth of 14 feet, covers a 140 x 140 foot area. The lake will hold about 200 swimmers. A diving raft will be anchored in the center of the deeper section.

A five foot walk will be laid around the lake with a 10 foot shelf extending from the walk to the lake. A five foot wire mesh fence will surround the entire area.

Hourglass Shape

The hourglass shaped lake will hold 850,000 gallons of water with 65 gallons coming and going continuously. A pipe to the storm sewer will handle the overflow.

There will sand and tables in the shade.

The lake bed will now be hand raked and tamped in preparation for the laying of the 30 mm aqua vinyl liner. After the plastic has been spread, the walk will be laid over the edges to hold the liner in place. Water will be pumped into the lake and left to freeze this winter to keep the vinyl down.

Bath House

Volunteers are building a cement block bath house which will include dressing rooms, showers, toilet facilities, and a concession stand. The structure will be 72 x 16 feet when completed.

The Weyauwega city park has been a community project from its inception in 1967. At that time the park site was purchased by the city, with half of the cost being paid through a grant from the federal government. Since then, under the enthusiastic leadership of Dr. L.P. Maasch, park chairman, the densely wooded land was cleared.

The first buildings were erected in 1968. The local American Legion post furnished the material and labor for the first shelter house. The Weyauwega firemen provided a building housing toilets and storage area.

The fire-fighters also added playground equipment which they purchased from defunct country school districts. A road, including a circle drive through the park, was graded and a parking lot provided north of the original shelter.

A softball diamond was added in 1969. The players erected fencing and assisted with final preparations of the field.

Picnic tables were constructed and painted by members of the high school industrial arts class. Boy Scout painted oil drums and placed them at strategic places throughout the park.

A large concrete area with tennis and basketball courts was completed by the Jaycees, who have been among the most active of the promoters for the park.

The park now stretches over 16 acres and includes three shelter houses, complete with electricity and playground equipment. The shelters are available for family reunions and may be reserved by contacting the city clerk. There also are grills and picnic tables for smaller groups.

A popular attraction for young and old is the "Little Red Schoolhouse" museum, which is located near the entrance to the park. The museum was first opened last year during "Horse and Buggy Days" and has since been made accessible to the public on weekends during the summer and by special appointment.

The park will not be unused during the winter. Tobogganing and snowmobiling enthusiasts will then take over

Fox River Hue and Cry

The source of sewage that stained the Fox River this week downstream from the Appleton sewage treatment plant, is being investigated by officials of the plant and of a local manufacturing firm

Wayne Colbert, treatment plant superintendent, said the source of the bright color isn't known for sure, but that one local manufacturer has told him that a fluorescent dye was being used Wednesday in a paper manufacturing process.

A woman living on Crestview Drive telephoned The Post-Crescent Wednesday afternoon to report that the river near her home was colored brown over an increasingly large area.

Colbert said the orange dye could have produced a brown hue by combining with the reddish cast created by treatment of sewage from the Stokely-Van Camp cannery where beet canning is in full swing. Plant sewage at this time of year is usually reddish-colored, according to Colbert, due to beet canning waste.

He said the orange dye is believed to be harmless

Tests Show Man Died Of Injuries to Head

SHIOCTON — A postmortem examination has proven that a 55-year-old migrant worker, found dead in his house early Thursday morning, died of severe head injuries, according to Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps.

Jesus Martinez, route 1, was found dead by another man who lived with him. Martinez was reportedly last seen alive about 6 p.m. Wednesday at his home, according to Kemps.

Authorities report he had complained of being ill Wednesday and failed to go to work. He was working as a cabbage cutter near Shiocton.

Martinez's room-mate had told Outagamie County sheriff's investigators the man was unruly Wednesday night. He told authorities that he wanted to put Martinez to bed because he was ill. He stated that Martinez threatened to kill him and took a swing at him before lying down.

Kemps reported that Martinez had been dead since near midnight. He ordered the postmortem, which was conducted by Dr. James W. Erchul at an Appleton hospital.

Kemps reported that his office would now work with the sheriff's department and Outagamie County Dist. Atty. James R. Long in conducting further investigation.

A microscopic report of the autopsy and laboratory analysis are not expected until the end of next week. Kemps added that no decision had been made as to whether a coroner's inquest would be held.

Bids Sought on Old High School At Birnamwood

WITTENBERG — Bids for the purchase and removal of the old high school building a Birnamwood will be accepted by the board of education of the Wittenberg-Birnamwood School District until 5 p.m. Sept 27.

The two-story frame building has a partial basement and sits on a stone-masonry foundation

Details regarding time and restoring the site can be gotten at the new high school along State 29 west of here.

Opposition to Waupaca Wingspread Complex Grows

WAUPACA — Opposition to a proposal to build a motel complex at the building of the proposed Wingspread complex on the Chain O'Lakes is growing among a number of residents.

Feelings of frustration and "can't we do something about this," have grown since Aug. 31 when a liquor license was granted to the three partners who explained their plans to building Wingspread on the Fern Terrace site at a public meeting on Aug. 13.

James Harrison, owner and operator of the Three Squares Restaurant; Carlyle Kottke, a Waupaca school teacher, and Samuel Harrison, brother of James, Stevens Point, said they planned to build a 50-unit motel, with a cocktail lounge, coffee shop and dining room for 300 persons, to open next May, if they were granted the liquor license. Their plan also includes a boat dock for the motel and a public dock for those diners who since the plan was announced, there have been informal expressions of concern, such as "There is only so much room." "It can mean the beginning of further commercial exploitation in an area zoned recreational," and this spot is already crowded with heavy boat and highway traffic where will it end?"

One group is petitioning the Farmington Town Board, asking that the board resist the pressure for further commercialization of the Chain, which will "destroy more values than it will ever create," a spokesman said Friday

New Protests

It appears that there may be different kinds of protests made by residents of the Chain O'Lakes area.

One group points to the technical study of existing land use made by the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission for the Waupaca Area Council of Governments in May, 1971, and adopted by the Town of Farmington.

That report states: "The provision and location of commercial facilities is, indeed, a problem of regional significance From the standpoint of a strong, stable tax base and healthy economy, all governmental units should be interested in encouraging a strong and healthy central business district in the City of Waupaca, and well designed, conveniently grouped commercial service throughout the area.

"The continuation of strip commercial development and the scatteration of commercial areas throughout the area will not only downgrade existing commercial centers and make convenient grouping more difficult, but also increase traffic hazards, decrease the potential of surrounding land and discourage the entrepreneur from making an investment not protected from other land use encroachment."

Many area residents heartily endorse that observation.

Town Study

The study addresses itself specifically to the Town of Farmington in another portion, stating "The foremost concern of the Town should be control development in the Chain O'Lakes At present, nearly all water frontage has been developed and it is expected development pressure will continue."

One resident said, "That pressure is here now. Errors of the past do not justify greater congestion and more demand on these small lakes There is no need for a motel on the Chain. There are motels in the immediate area and a new one on the drawing board for the City of Waupaca which will provide rooms, a dining place and cocktail lounge."

"The argument that further expansion of the tax base in the Town of Farmington, in granting the liquor license, is a ridiculous reason for its issuance," one resident observed. "There are 600 property owners on the Chain O'Lakes, and these taxpayers make a minimum demand on the towns for services - more than 50 per cent of them have seasonal occupancy.

Another talked about the existing severe problems of sanitation, land use, congestion and heavy traffic on land and water. "The Chain should be given time to correct its present difficulties, before still another concentration is heaped upon it," she said.

Heavy Traffic

To the most casual observer, it is apparent that the channel between McCrossen and Round Lake is the most heavily traveled on the Chain. "One concerned resident asked. "Did you ever think about what a public boat landing and another private boat dock would contribute to this congestion?"

One resident related, "I have the not so subtle feeling that this complex is being planned to attract snowmobilers to the area — a further exploitation and it will mean traffic in the area 'twenty-four months of the year.' Too many of us have spent our life savings for our homes on these beautiful lakes — we must do everything in our power to protect our investment and keep our lakes." He has been a resident for 17 years.

While the battle is not pitched, the forces are gathering for public debate on Wingspread. The tri-partners are conferring this weekend with their architect to draw up final plans.
